ELSIE RAYMOND IN DEFENCE CLAIMS TRAMP KILLED MATTIE HACKETT

RAYMOND DEFENCE OPENS; SET UP ALIBI

KENNEBEC COUNTY COURT HOUSE, Augusta, Me., Nov. 22.—The defence for Mrs. Elsie Hobbs Raymond will try to prove that Mattie Hackett was murdered by a tramp instead of by Mrs. Raymond, and that the tramp confessed. The State rested at noon.

In outlining the defence to the jury at the trial of Mrs. Raymond today, Frank A. Morey, Mayor of Lewiston, and junior counsel for Mrs. Raymond, mentioned three tramps who, he said, were in the vicinity of the crime.

He said that the defence would attempt to prove that one of these three tramps murdered Mattie Hackett.

"We will also attempt to put in a confession," was the declaration of Mayor Morey.

Thus the defence disclosed its hand, to set up the claim of a tramp-murderer and an alibi for Mrs. Raymond, in opposition to the contention of the State that Mrs. Raymond strangled the girl through jealousy.

FITZHUGH IN BOSTON WITH WARMAN, SILENT ABOUT GRAND TRUNK

President Fitzhugh of the Southern New England Railway and President's Assistant Cy Warman arrived in Boston today and went to the Touraine. They afterward held a conference with Charles S. Baxter, who acted as their attorney in Boston. After the conference Mr. Warman said that there were no developments in the situation, and professed ignorance of the attitude of the Grand Trunk toward the Federal investigation.

SHIP PATTERNS OF FORE RIVER CO. LOST IN FIRE

Fifty persons were driven to the street by a fire in the three-story lodging house of William Solomon in Sargent's lane, Quincy Point, today. All are employed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Company, the fire started in a barn occupied by the Fore River company for storing ship patterns, all of which were destroyed. The damage to the barn is $1,500. The patterns were worth $5,000.

PLEADS FOR SINGLE TELEPHONE SYSTEM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Before the national convention of railway commissioners here today J. P. Watson, railway commissioner of Oklahoma, urged the adoption of a single telephone system throughout the United States. He said it was a hardship on subscribers to have two or more systems in one city.

THE AMERICAN'S WAR CORRESPONDENT, LONG, SAFE, BUT A PRISONER

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Anxiety over the fate of Crozier Long, Francis McCullagh and Angus Hamilton, three war correspondents with the Turkish Army who had not been heard from for some time, was set at rest today when a telegram was received here from Noel Buxton, another correspondent at Kirk Killisseh, saying that all had been taken prisoners by the Bulgarians, but were safe. Long represents the New York AMERICAN and several European papers. Hamilton was correspondent for the Central News and the National News Association, and McCullagh represented the Daily News.

WAR'S GREATEST BATTLE RAGING

BULLETINS.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—All Austrian reserves were summoned to the colors today, according to a news agency dispatch received here from Vienna. This indicates that the Austrian government is preparing for immediate action against Servia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.—With the water pouring into her hold from several big holes beneath the water line, the Turkish battleship Messudiyeh was towed in a sinking condition into the Golden Horn today. She was attacked by a flotilla of Bulgarian torpedo boats.

30,000 Greeks to Aid Bulgars.

ATHENS, Nov. 22.—Thirty thousand Greek troops were today ordered to reinforce the Bulgarian army attacking the Chatalja defences at Constantinople. It will be some time before the Greeks arrive on the firing line, as they will have to cross nearly 350 miles of territory from their present base south of Monastir.

King Peter's Brother Wounded.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—Prince Arsene Karageorgevitch, brother of King Peter of Servia, was seriously and perhaps fatally wounded in the taking of Monastir by the Servian army, according to a Belgrade telegram received today. Prince Arsene is reported to have acted with conspicuous gallantry during the fighting, leading one of the Servian columns.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22.—The greatest battle of the Balkan war is raging today along the Tchataija lines, both Bulgarians and Turks resuming hostilities with savage fury, following the rejection by the Porte of the allies' armistice terms.

Taking advantage of the twenty-four hours lull in the fighting, brought about by tentative negotiations between General

PROBING HIGH COAL PRICES IN BOSTON

Hugh S. Hanna, special investigator of the Department of Commerce and Labor, is in Boston investigating the high cost of anthracite, in order to that effect having been passed at the last session of Congress. Mr. Hanna looked up statistics of coal prices at the Chamber of Commerce. He also interviewed several of the biggest retail coal dealers in and about the city. He will confer with smaller dealers next week.

RAYNER UNCONSCIOUS, BUT CLINGS TO LIFE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The remarkable vitality shown by Senator Isidor Rayner of Maryland has proved a surprise to his family and physicians. He has been unconscious for the greater part of two days, with his strength slowly ebbing, but was still alive today.

NAPHTHA FIRED BY LANTERN IN WELL; 7 HURT

Seven men employed on the Malden extension of the Elevated Railroad at Arlington and Beacham streets, Charlestown, were today injured by an explosion of naphtha that had been drained into an old well. One of the men stuck a lighted lantern through an opening from an excavation into the well. Those injured were:

PASQUALE DE ANGELO, twenty-three years old, of No. 10 Austin street, Charlestown. Back hurt and body lacerated. Taken to Relief Hospital.

PETRO LOPORTO, twenty-six years old, of No. 1 Howe street, Boston. Left leg crushed and right arm cut. Taken to Relief Hospital.

ANGELO ANNARONO, forty years old, of No. 6 Noyes place, Boston. Face and eyes burned. Taken to Relief Hospital.

JOSEPH CONNOLLY, thirty-eight years old, of No. 48 Norton street, Roxbury. Burned about the face.

TIMOTHY HURLEY, thirty-six years old, of No. 75 Portland street, Everett. Burned about the face.

PHILIP PETRONI, thirty-nine years old, of No. 541 Hanover street. Burned about the face.

——, another employe, burned about the face.

Well Full of Naphtha.

The old well is in the rear of the varnish factory of Burbank & Ryder. For many years it had been used as a repository for naphtha refuse that was drained into it. An excavation about ten feet square and eighteen feet deep had been dug for the foundation of a cement pier.

The fumes of naphtha came into the excavation, and Foreman John T. Connors notified the people of the varnish factory. They sent a chemist to examine the contents of the old well and found that it was 40 per cent. naphtha. They pumped all of the naphtha out, as they thought.

Men Were Warned.

Strict orders were given to the men not to smoke or light any matches in the excavation. Four men were at work in the hole and others at the edge of it, when the explosion occurred. There was a rumbling sound and a flash of flame. The three men taken to the Relief Hospital—three of the four in the excavation—were injured the worst. The others were treated on the ground and went home.

NEW SOUNDING BOARD FOR SPEAKER CLARK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A new sounding board of stout oak is being placed on the Speaker's desk in the House, to withstand the crushing blows of the gavel wielded by the good right arm of Speaker Clark in the coming session. The Speaker completely ruined the old sounding board in the past session, and the splintered remnants were removed by the House carpenter.

FIND MISS GARVIN'S BODY IN POND

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 22.—The body of Miss Norma Garvin was found at 8 a. m. today in the mill pond off the Bartlett estate, about a mile from her home at Lonsdale.

The young woman was the daughter of former Governor L. F. C. Garvin. She was one of the most prominent women in this part of the State. She had left her home at 7:30 o'clock on Wednesday evening to come to Providence to attend a lecture by Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott on equal suffrage.

The dragging of the pond began yesterday afternoon and was kept up until 11 o'clock last night. The young woman's hat and hand satchel were found and her relatives then became convinced that she had drowned herself.

As early as 5 o'clock today men from the Lonsdale cotton mills were searching for the body with grappling hooks. There are 6,000 operatives in the mills and nearly every one of them knew Miss Garvin. She was held in high esteem by them.

Found in Five Feet of Water.

The searchers were in charge of James C. Stansfield, who was assisted by James Pilkington, Elmer A. Usher, John Smith, Robert Howells, James McCarthy, Robert Berger, Clarence Garden, Thomas Turner, Edward Loins, John Duffy, Henry Staus.

WOTHERSPOON MAY LOSE HIS STANDING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Major General Wotherspoon, assistant chief of staff of the Army, may be forced to retire into private life without the compensation to which he would be entitled for his long service under the government. This outlook is due to the failure of the Senate to confirm his nomination for promotion to Major-General. A decision of the Supreme Court held that when an officer vacated an office and a successor was appointed the first officer could not regain his original commission.

WARD LINER SUNK; ONE SAILOR DROWNED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The State Department was notified that the Ward Line steamship Commodore of New York sank near Nuevitas, Cuba, yesterday. One sailor was drowned while the passengers and crew were being taken ashore in lifeboats.

Stubborn "Child" 6 Feet Tall, Wouldn't Mind, So Goes to Jail

Six feet and one inch tall and weighing 180 pounds, Russell W. Owens, seventeen years old, was arraigned in the Malden court today as a "stubborn child."

The complainant was the "child's" mother, Mrs. Mary Owens, of No. 82 Middlesex street, Malden. Judge Sweetser was amazed when the prisoner loomed up.

"This child won't mind me, Your Honor," said the mother. "He pawns all his clothes and I'm just tired buying clothes for him."

"How about that, Russell?" asked Judge Sweetzer.

"Well, Your Honor," said Owens, "I've been looking for work. But I'm kind of weak and nervous and I don't seem to find any."

"You don't look weak and nervous," remarked the judge. "I guess I'll give you a term in the Concord reformatory and afford you a chance to develop your muscle."

The police said Owens had been arrested in Rochester, Pittsfield and Springfield as a vagrant.

SCHRANK WILL BE SENT TO ASYLUM

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 22.—John Schrank, the man who shot and dangerously wounded Colonel Theodore Roosevelt here October 14, was today declared insane. He will be sent to an asylum for the criminal insane at Oshkosh by Judge Backus on the unanimous finding presented by the sanity commission appointed by the court to examine Schrank after the man had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of having assaulted Roosevelt with intent to kill.

Photographer Barely Escapes Thrashing at Hands of Gov. Wilson

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 22.—President-elect Woodrow Wilson had a clash with an annoying photographer near his cottage today, in which the photographer narrowly escaped being chastised. The President-elect had refused to pose for his picture, but the photographer was insistent and got in front of Mr. Wilson, blocking his path while he snapped his picture. The Governor was plainly angered. "You are no gentleman, and I have a good mind to thrash you," exclaimed the President-elect.

Governor Wilson has been forced to give up his daily bicycle rides and his long walks, in which he found such keen delight, and either stay at home or ride in a closed carriage, to avoid the tourists and the natives who have made it a practice to bait him on his solitary jaunts for the purpose of expressing congratulations. Mr. Wilson and his family now remain incommunicado most of the day, hanging out on the gate a basket, which in the Bermudian custom indicates that the owner is not at home.

When Mayor Wainwright and his wife called to pay their respects they were unable to see the Wilson family.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Confirmation was expressed today of the plan of the Carnegie Foundation to give each ex-President of the United States or a President's widow a pension of $25,000 a year. The question at issue is, "Shall a private citizen be permitted to provide for former Presidents by giving them an annual pension?"

HOW M'MANIGAL GOT DYNAMITE

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 22.—After the Los Angeles Times explosion the McNamara brothers and Ortie McManigal planned to go into the business of dynamiting of non-union work on a larger scale than ever. They were frightened at the views to their identity obtained from J. B. McNamara's trail which he left when he bought the 500 pounds of dynamite in California. They decided thereafter to steal all their explosives, thus leaving no trail.

They were encouraged by "J. B.'s" successful destruction of the Times plant and they wanted large quantities of dynamite and nitro-glycerine with which to carry on the explosions planned by J. B. McNamara.

How McManigal and J. B. McNamara stole this dynamite by wholesale for use in the dynamiting work was told by Ortie McManigal on the stand today at the conspiracy trial.

"I stole in all 1,200 pounds of dynamite from Nat Frances' quarry in Bloomville, Ohio," he said. This was in January, 1911. "The first time I stole 400 pounds and cached it in the double partitioned shed on my father's place in Tiffin. Then I went back and got enough more to make 1,200 pounds.

"Then J. B. and I got some suit cases, loaded them up and brought the dope to Indianapolis on a regular passenger train. J. B. J. J., and I then went to see D. Jones, near Indianapolis, and rented his barn and corked the dynamite in a plain box. J. J. told Jones to keep his children away from the barn and he said he would.

"Before we rented this barn we corked the twelve hundred pounds in the vault on the fifth floor of the office building in the heart of Indianapolis where McNamara's office was."

May Lay Woman's Death at Hickey's Door

Search at Chestnut Hill Is On Today

PATROLMAN RICHARD CONROY WITH BOY SEARCHERS IN CHESTNUT HILL WOODS.

DORCHESTER BOYS TELL POLICE STRANGER INVITED THEM TO GO TO NEW YORK.

TOMS RIVER, N. J., Nov. 22.—The possibility that a murder in Lakewood, N. J., where a woman was killed, may be laid at the door of J. Frank Hickey developed here today.

This possibility may interfere with the plans for extraditing Hickey to Buffalo, N. Y., where he is under indictment as the murderer of Joseph Josepha, a seven-year-old Lackawanna boy.

Hickey was arrested near here on the request of the Lackawanna, N. Y., police, after postcards had been received from Boston confessing to the murder of two boys, at least, and to attempts to kill others. Those postals were unsigned, but it is charged that Hickey's handwriting is similar to that of the boy strangler, whose proclivities for mailing messages to the police has given him the name of the "Postcard Slayer."

The application from Governor Dix of New York for the extradition of Hickey, who is held in the County Jail here, has been received at the State House, Trenton.

Assistant Attorney-General Nelson Gaskill has fixed Tuesday next, November 26, as the date for hearing the application, and has notified Howard Jeffrey, counsel for Hickey.

Lakewood authorities are investigating the report that Hickey was in Lakewood the latter part of last April, when Mrs. Carrie C. Turner was killed.

There are a number of striking similarities in the Turner murder and the Josepha murder in Lackawanna.

Mrs. Turner was killed April 24. It is alleged by Chief of Police Sorrows that the police blotter shows a man who answers Hickey's description was in Lakewood two days before and two days after the murder. If the Lakewood police are satisfied that Hickey is the man they want they will fight his extradition.

Worked in Fore River Yard.

J. Frank Hickey, the alleged boy stranger, who is under indictment in New Jersey for murder in the first degree, left the employ of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy September 14, last, officials of the company said today. He has worked there as an electrician off and on for three years, never more than a few months at a time.

Information about Hickey's presence here came from a number of people. In a message from Buffalo, Commissioner Lenahan of the Lackawanna police offered more evidence that the man under arrest and the Hickey who worked here are the same man.

Commissioner Lenhan is quoted as saying:

"In the country-wide search for Hickey we have traced his movements through many cities and learned that a man of that name worked in Quincy recently.

"The Hickey held in New Jersey is said to have a scar on the right temple. The man who worked in Quincy had similar scar. I believe he is the same man as the one held, but have not verified that theory yet.

Wrote from New York.

Just before he left Quincy Hickey said that he was going to an alcoholic sanitorium in New York State where he had been once before for treatment.

Since going away Hickey is said to have written at least one letter back to Quincy and the police think he sent more. This letter was written on the stationery of a New York hotel.

The police claim to have read in the papers that the same kind of stationery was found in Hickey's trunk.

SEARCH AT CHESTNUT HILLS IS FRUITLESS; GET QUINCY CLEWS

The Brookline police today continued their search of the Chestnut Hill woods, where a post card purporting to come from the "boy strangler" said the body of Joseph L. O'Connor, a missing Roxbury boy, would be found. Boys and men of the neighborhood aided the search.

Meanwhile it developed that Israel Kramer, the fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kramer of No. 73 Wyman street, Lynn, who disappeared September 4, may be at Nashua, N. H.

A letter was received from Howard L. Gording of Salem Depot, N. H. He wrote that he had seen a boy at that place recently whom he thought might be the Kramer boy. Attorney Goldman sent a picture to that place and Deputy Bartlett also sent a description of the boy to the police.

Robert Miller and Reginald Newell of Dorchester had an experience that was reported to the police yesterday when an automobilist offered to take them to New York.

On their way home from school the lads were accosted by a stranger who invited them to accompany him to New York in his auto. They promised to meet their new friend near the Ashmont-street car barns.

Later the boys remembered the postal cards received by the police telling of the boy strangler.

The story finally reached the ears of Captain Hall of the Dorchester police station. Plans for the apprehension of the automobilist were laid. He failed to show up.

STATUE APPEAL BY GARRISON

Francis J. Garrison, son of William Lloyd Garrison, who protested yesterday to Mayor Fitzgerald against the removal of his father's statue from Commonwealth avenue to the Public Garden, today said he felt no valid reason had been given for removing the statue from its present site.

Mr. Garrison's letter in full follows:

Dear Mr. Mayor—My attention has been called to the enclosed clippings from local newspapers relative to the proposed removal of the statues on Commonwealth avenue.

It is a delicate matter for me to participate in the discussion, since my father's statue is one of those involved in the proposition, and naturally it may be thought to be prejudiced, but I will not withhold from you the expression of my regret that this step is contemplated.

The Art Commissioners have advanced no cogent reasons to the public why the city should go to the expense of removing statues which I think have been regarded as well and appropriately placed, and certainly as no blemish, artistically, to Boston's noblest avenue. The excuse given me some months ago by one or two members of the commission, when I was conferring with them on another matter, namely, that the statues interfere with the vista down the mall and should be removed on that account, seems to me trivial and by no means warranting the appropriation of $10,000 suggested to cover the expense, and is setting before a dangerous precedent to put our public statues and monuments on wheels, so to speak, to be travelled at whim from one place to another at the behest of a shifting committee. And what is to hinder the commission or their successors from appropriating the sites vacated for other statues, to be in turn hustled from their places?

If, as stated, the matter is now in your hands for final decision, I am sure you will give it full and careful consideration before acting, and I remain,

Very truly yours,
FRANCIS J. GARRISON.

CHICKEN FLIP AT GARDNER BALL

At 8 a. m. today, just as the guests were leaving the Copley-Plaza, where they had been dancing all night at the coming out party of Miss Constance Gardner, daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Augustus P. Gardner and granddaughter of Senator and Mrs. Lodge, it became known that the chicken flip, the turkey trot and the bunny hug had at last usurped the places of the staid waltz and two-step.

The chicken flip was the general favorite. The two orchestras played without interruption, and the dancers danced without interruption, to their hearts' content.

It was the task of Back Bay society today. That the old-time dances that have been favorites so long in the most select ball rooms could be supplanted by the turkey trot, bunny hug and chicken flip could hardly be believed at first. Then, as the news came around, society settled back, seemingly resigned to the change.

Flowers for Hospitals.

Senator and Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, who gave the party for their grand-daughter, watched the proceedings. The eyes of the senator twinkled, but he did not venture the steps himself.

The flowers that graced the ball were today sent to the hospitals of the city. There was a wealth of them. Mrs. Jack Gardner, who was one of the guests, sent many of them. The entire north wing of the hotel, which was reserved for the use of the dancers, was banked and festooned with flowers.

Miss Gardner was in white silk and lace and carried a huge bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids.

The large gold and mirrored ballroom of the hotel was decorated with palms and toy trees. The balconies at either end had potted ferns outlining the rails, while Southern smilax was used in screening the windows above the boxes and also outlined the white stucco figures of the upper walls.

Supper at Midnight.

It was not until midnight that supper was served in the large front dining room, where the guests were seated at 125 small tables, each one of which was decorated with a large bunch of pink Killarney roses, the color being a favorite of the young debutante. There, with the gold chairs and the beautifully gowned guests, the scene was one of unusual brilliancy.

The tea room was used for a sitting-out and smoking room, and here palms and bay trees were the decorations. Large hangings at either side of the main entrance leading between the tea and ball rooms gave the appearance of being held in a private house, shutting off practically the entire main floor from the hotel office.

Mrs. Lodge, the hostess, arrived from her Summer home at Nahant and registered at the hotel. Miss Gardner is prominent in the Myopia Hunt Club set, her father having a Summer place at Hamilton.

Congressman and Mrs. Gardner have come into town, having rented the Robert Winsor house at No. 21 Marlboro street, where they are to give many entertainments in their daughter's honor.

Dinner Guests First.

Prior to the affair Mr. and Mrs Horatio Lamb of Beacon street were host and hostess at a large dinner in honor of the event, and of their debutante daughter, Miss Aimee Lamb.

Among the gowns those of the debutantes were by far the most attractive. Miss Miriam Sears was in pale pink satin and white tulle. Over the shoulders she wore silver sequin tags. Miss E. W. Ames was in white chiffon, with tunic of gold lace. Miss Aimee Lamb was in white silk and lace. Her mother, Mrs. Horatio Lamb, was in black silk and lace ensemble. Miss A. Saltonstall was in pale green silk with crystal trimmings. Miss Elizabeth Sears Fairchild, who is visiting here from western Virginia, was in white lace and silk. Miss Ruth Gaston was in white satin with side trimming of American beauty roses on the skirt. Miss Hunnewell was in pink tulle and lace. Miss Mary Hunnewell, who debuts this year, was in white satin and lace. Miss Elizabeth Sears was in white. Miss Mary Thorndike was in white satin and tulle.

THE MONEY-SAVING CHANCE OF YOUR LIFE

The Sensation of the Day

THERE'S A REASON!— This great sale grows great every day—the incessant demand, the tremdous response, the clamoring crowds—exceeding in vastness, volume and velocity any sale ever held anywhere—is all due to the fact that the merchandise is of the highest character, the most dependable quality—with prices that are legitimately marked down, as advertised.

YOU KNOW— No other merchant could possibly give you such values as you'll receive here during this sale. It would be impossible for us to do so, were it not for the fact that the insurance companies stood the loss that these terrific reductions naturally incur—we are certainly gratified at the opportunity to be able to distribute such tremendous values as is our good fortune to do in this instance.

AMERICAN HELD FOR A RANSOM

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Consular dispatches from northern Mexico today stated that William N. Fink, the American superintendent of the San Toy Mining Company, whose camp is fifteen miles from Chihuahua, has been captured by the Mexican rebels and is being held for ransom of $5,000. The State Department has instructed Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson in Mexico City to do everything possible to obtain Fink's release. Santa Eulalie is reported to have been taken by the rebels.

The Civilized Pace

By MORTON BIRGE

To show that the world's getting better each day,
A German inventor ann ounces a way
Of making a plate of thin metal so tough
That infantry fire can't damage the stuff.

And now, just to show how we earnestly try
To uplift the world all we can, ere we die,

Some chap will keep busy until he invents
Some shooter to shatter this German defence.

The way that inventors are setting the pace
Is cited as proof of a civilized race:
So we must be civilized down pretty fine,
To judge by the weapons of war we design.

SHOOTS STEPMOTHER.

HAMMOND, Ind. Nov. 22.—Frank Cravens, aged nineteen, during a quarrel, shot his stepmother, Mrs. Lincoln Cravens and then shot himself.

SAYS HE OWNS B. & A. LAND

Benjamin Dickerman, an eighty-seven-year-old citizen of Newton and a leading member of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, said today he gave the Boston & Albany railroad authorities the right to build the station on his land, which the railroad now closes as a right of way to Newton citizens.

"I am going to sue the road," he said today. "The land that the station stands on is my property. I lent it to the Boston & Albany people in 1886 with the understanding that they build the station on the land. Then I built up the streets surrounding the station. As the land is my property, I fail to see how they can stop me from crossing it. By the same argument, I have a perfect right to allow citizens of Newton to cross the land."

It is claimed by Newton citizens that being barred from crossing on the path that has been open to them for twenty-four years, they are compelled to walk seventy-five miles more every year in using the nearest crossing over to the station.

'SAIL FROM HERE,' MAYOR'S SLOGAN

Mayor Fitzgerald, in a statement made public today, urged upon Boston's citizens and upon the big dry goods stores, which send hundreds of "buyers" abroad every year, the necessity of aiding port development in other ways besides reading the papers.

"Sail from Boston," was the Mayor's plea. He was speaking with special reference to the Hamburg-American line, which has just announced its sailing schedule. He said:

The Hamburg-American line cannot be made a success simply by an appropriation on the part of the State of millions of dollars for dock improvements, or the expenditure of thousands of dollars by Boston in making suitable street approaches.

All those who travel across the water can do something, and I earnestly hope that every person in New England who is interested in the development of this part of the country will take special pains to book his passage on steamers sailing from Boston.

I hope that the big dry goods houses, which send hundreds of men and women across the ocean, will see that Boston ships are selected, not only for the direct return that will come to the steamship company, but for the example it will set. Only the most urgent necessity should oblige New Englanders in the future to sail from outside of Boston.

A body of citizens of the Bunker Hill district appeared before the port directors' meeting asking that Charlestown be considered in port development plans. During the meeting the New Haven road was attacked for grabbing all the available property on the waterfront.

Judge Joseph J. Corbett, corporation counsel for the city, explained at length the possibilities of Charlestown's waterfront, pointing out a considerable part of property ready for development.

Congressman William F. Murray indorsed the efforts of President Russell of the Chamber of Commerce to have the Boston & Maine taken from the New Haven and made a State owned railroad.

EXTEND CAR LINE TO FRANKLIN PARK

Beginning tomorrow the terminus of the North Station, subway, Columbus avenue line will be extended from Egleston square to Franklin Park. The extension of this line over Beaver street will double the service on that street. Instead of six cars per hour during rush hours there will be twelve, and instead of four cars per hour during normal hours there will be eight. This change has been made in response to a public demand by those living in the vicinity of Egleston square for more service on Beaver street.

CHARGE GIRL WITH THEFT OF $250 PIN

Brighton policemen arrested Ellen (Iould, nineteen, of No. 51 Falmouth street, charged with larceny of a breast pin set with diamonds, valued at $250 from Mrs. Elizabeth Loughary of No. 17 Vancouver street, Roxbury, last month.

Reorganization Sale

Made imperative by the RETIREMENT of Mr. Georges, Sr., creating the most intense interest. A million-dollar stock of GEORGES model clothes sacrificed for immediate CASH.

See My Windows TODAY They Tell the Story

Cash is my one, big, imperative need. My ambition is aroused. When I make the big settlement with the retiring senior member of this concern, I'm going to take over the complete ownership of the Georges business, one of the largest devoted to retail clothes selling in the United States. Nothing shall stand in my way. The cash must be raised. I've deeply reduced prices, offering values that the shrewd buyer will keenly appreciate. I fully realize that the future of my business after this Reorganization depends upon the values and methods of my present sale.

VICTOR PAPINEAU, WHO WAS DIVORCED BY WEALTHY WIFE

PAPINEAU GLAD HE'S FREE AGAIN

Victor D. Papineau of Webster, who was recently divorced by his young wife, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Chase Papineau, heiress to the Frederick B. Chase estate in Webster, says he has no bitterness against his former wife.

"I desire to state," says Mr. Papineau, "that I am glad this affair has at last been brought to a close and that I have no feeling of animosity against Mrs. Papineau."

Mrs. Papineau obtained her divorce on the grounds of cruel and slander treatment. The verdict was awarded in Worcester.

Papineau declares that his family is as good as that of his wife and that his parents can trace their ancestry back to some of the best people in France.

Mrs. Papineau is a daughter of a prominent and wealthy Webster family and was attending Miss Gilmore's School for Girls on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, when she eloped and married Papineau, a shipping clerk, in 1905.

Schedules in bankruptcy were filed today by the Harley Company of Brockton. The liabilities are $20,018 and the assets $7,092.

COURT SAYS WOODMEN RATE IS OPPRESSIVE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 22.—Insurgent members of the Modern Woodmen of America were victorious today in a suit against the proposed rate increase when Judge Robert Shirley in the Circuit Court of Sangamon County granted a perpetual injunction against enforcing the new rates. He held they were burdensome and oppressive.

AUTOIST LANDS ON WALL UNHURT

Two men are recovering today and a third is still marvelling at his escape from injury in one of the most remarkable automobile accidents along the South Shore this Fall.

Dr. Charles Whelan of Hingham, former Dartmouth football star and for a number of years the college coach, was speeding his auto phaeton from Hingham to Hull to attend former Fire Chief John L. Mitchell. At the corner of Nantasket avenue and School street, Nantasket, near the Stearns estate, Dr. Whelan's auto was in violent collision with a touring car driven by Fred Mitchell, son of the man whom Dr. Whelan was on his way to attend.

Dr. Whelan and Fred Mitchell were hurt, but the feature of the collision was the escape of Horace Ettinger of Wayland, Hull, who was riding with young Mitchell.

Mr. Ettinger was thrown through the windshield of the Mitchell machine, traveled thirty feet through the air and landed on top of a stone wall without a scratch.

Three bones were broken in Dr. Whelan's right hand and his right leg was hurt. Fred Mitchell received a sprained arm, cuts on his face and injuries to his right leg.

The collision occurred at 7:30 p. m. Fred Mitchell started to turn out for Dr. Whelan's phaeton, when the steering gear on his touring car failed to respond. The next second there was a crash. Both machines were wrecked. The engine in Dr. Whelan's car was driven back to the rear axle. Fred Mitchell was thrown out. Dr. Whelan was caught in the wreck of his phaeton and received severe body bruises, in addition to his other injuries.

When Horace Ettinger picked himself up from the stone wall, on which he had been thrown, he helped Mitchell and Dr. Whelan. Police Chief Reynolds of Hull, who lives near the scene of the accident, took Dr. Whelan back to Hingham in the Reynolds car. Fred Mitchell telephoned for his other car, in which he took Mr. Ettinger home.

Miss Warren's Count Has Black Eye. 'Who Did It' Is Mystery

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Who gave the distinguished Comte Guy de Lasterie his black eye?

There were many answers to this question when the Mauretania docked today, bringing the Count and his fiancee, Miss Constance Warren, the athletic New York society girl and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warren.

The passengers were divided into sections as to their beliefs on this all-important topic.

Light was sought upon this topic from the Count himself. A note was sent to him in the stateroom of Mr. Warren, the banker and director of the Metropolitan Opera House, and the Count emerged from the Warren's stateroom laughing. Also emerged Mr. and Mrs. Warren and Miss Warren.

One rumor was that Miss Warren had a little disagreement with her fiance.

"Why, my dear child," said she, "it simply ridiculous," said the Count, while he and the family group laughed.

"The ship rolled violently one night and I was thrown out of my berth."

Miss Warren, who is a friend of Eleonora Sears, laughed quite as heartily as the rest.

"Why how terribly foolish," she exclaimed. "There is no truth in it. The Count simply fell out of bed, as he says."

NEWTON WOMAN FREED IN RENO

Lotta Hutchins Myers of Newton Centre, who was granted a decree of absolute divorce at Reno, today's dispatches say, at the conclusion of a long hearing before Judge Orr, from Malcolm Hulbert Myers as the ground of desertion, and resumed her maiden name, Lotta Tooker.

She testified they were married in Providence on April 27, 1907. Mrs. Myers said their troubles began over money matters, she being compelled to pay many of his debts. He graduated from Dartmouth in 1906, and was of an old Massachusetts family of Cape Cod. His father, Willis G. Myers, is a mining promoter in the Exchange Building.

On January 2 last year, Mrs. Myers stayed, her husband came home and remarked he had lost his position and could not support her. He packed his trunk and went away, and she has never seen him since.

Girl Preacher's Plea Brings Confession of Slaying 5 Years Ago

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Moved by the voice of a girl mission preacher, Stephen La Porte confessed to a five-year-old Arizona murder, and will go back today in custody to face trial.

La Porte smiled when he was told that he was to be taken back.

Walter Taylor, a bartender in Roberts' saloon, Tucson, Ariz., was the man killed.

Taylor found La Porte calling on Mrs. Taylor. In the scene that followed, La Porte shot Taylor dead with a rifle. After wandering in many cities and States, La Porte, who took the name of Robert Livingston, arrived in Chicago.

In his misery he walked about the streets. A friendly voice, the first he had heard in many a day, beckoned him to the Olive Mission, on Desplaines street.

A woman of the little band of mission workers stepped forward and took as her text "Come all ye that are weary and heavy laden and I will give you rest."

La Porte stepped out of the group in front of her and, with bowed head, recited the burden that was weighing down his soul. Then he turned away and walked from their midst to confess to the police. He went to the Desplaines street station, where he told Lieutenant Gallery what he had done and asked to be locked up.

'PARIS STYLES CHAIN WOMEN'

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—If American women would assert their independence of Paris dressmakers and cease to be chained like a circus elephant by the shackles of false art, American women would soon outstrip the world. This is what Alexander S. Cresh, one time president of the American Tailors' Association, told 300 women students of Teachers' College's new school of practical arts.

"When an American woman tourist goes abroad, she asks:

"Where can I find the material I saw Mrs. Morganbilt wear before I left America?' 'Not in Paris rot,' is the answer. It originated in America, but America never gets the credit for it.

Assert your independence. Don't be like a clever elephant who at the most can walk no more than four feet on account of his chains."

Cortelyou Made a Vice-President of Conservatory

George Bruce Cortelyou of New York, former secretary of the treasury, was elected a vice-president of the New England Conservatory of Music at the annual meeting. Mr. Cortelyou, who is an alumnus of the conservatory, has previously served on the Board of Trustees.

The other officers as re-elected or elected, are: Eben D. Jordan, president; Arthur F. Estabrook and Frank Wood, vice-presidents; trustees re-elected for four years, Richard Henry Dana, Frederick F. Fish, Henry L. Higginson, Dr. S. W. Langmaid, Walter Langshaw, John B. Willis, Dr. Albert B. Winship, and for one year, representing the New England Conservatory Alumni Association, Percy Jewett Burrell.

William A. L. Baxley was re-elected treasurer for one year, and George W. Chadwick, director, for five years; Ralph L. Flanders, manager, for five years.

The Executive Committee for one year will consist of the members ex-officio together with Frederick S. Converse, Edward S. Dodge, Frederick P. Fish and Samual Carr.

MOTHER GETS CLEW TO CHILD

Mrs. Eva L. Pierce, whose five-month-old daughter disappeared while she was staying in Boston a few weeks ago, started today from Worcester for Peterboro, N. H., where she had learned the child had been found. The child is being cared for by friends, she learned. Ever since the child disappeared she has been hunting all over New England for her.

Mrs. Pierce's story is that she got a divorce from her husband about three months ago, and then went to work for herself and child. She said:

"A few weeks ago I was at the Crawford House, Boston, where I left my baby in my room for a short while. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Field and their six children were staying in the house. I told Mrs. Field of my trouble, and she offered to take care of baby for me while I was working.

I paid a week's board for the little girl in advance. Shortly afterward Mr. Field got work in Worcester and left Boston with his family, taking the baby along, but not giving any address except "General Delivery."

I wrote several letters to that address. The letters were all sent back, and I was nearly frantic. I then went to Worcester and told the police my story.

According to the information received in Worcester, relatives arrived in Worcester shortly after the Field family came and took the baby away with them. These people stak it to Plainfield, N. J., it is said. Then somebody else took charge of the child, and according to the dispatch the baby is being cared for in Peterboro.

WOMAN HIT BY CAR IS BETTER TODAY

Mrs. Jane King, fifty years old, of No. 23 Englewood avenue, Brookline, who narrowly escaped death by being run over by a trolley car, is eating as comfortably as can be expected at the Massachusetts General Hospital. Mrs. King was severely bruised and sustained a fracture of the shoulder. It was necessary to jack the car up before she could be extricated.

LONG HOLD-UP ON BAY STATE CARS

Passengers on the Bay State Street Railway line were greatly inconvenienced when the cars were tied up from 10 o'clock until after midnight. They finally used the East Boston tunnel for Chelsea and points beyond. The inward bound cars were running, but those outward bound were stalled.

SLAYER, SILENT FOR SIX MONTHS, SPEAKS

ATLANTA, Nov. 22.—Robert L. Clay, under sentence of death ofr wife murder, spoke for the first time in six months. When the jailer brought food and a cup of coffee to the prisoner's cell in "death row," Clay said:

"This coffee's not good. Get me some more." He has been tried, convicted and sentenced during his silence.

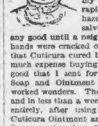
ECZEMA ON LIMB ITCHED DREADFULLY

Scratched in Sleep. Spread Rapidly. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Worked Wonders. Stopped Itching and In Less Than a Week Healed Entirely. Cost 75 Cents.



27 Whitney Ave., Cambridge, Mass.—"My trouble was eczema. It began by my hose-supporter rubbing and poisoning the skin on my leg just above the knee. The eruption was small pimples which itched dreadfully. When I scratched them they would scab over and they itched so nights that I scratched the scabs off in my sleep. They spread rapidly. I used witch hazel, different carbolic salves but nothing did it any good until a neighbor told me how her hands were cracked open and bleeding and that Cuticura cured her. I had been to so much expense buying remedies that did no good that I sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment before using. They worked wonders. They stopped the itching and in less than a week's time it had healed entirely, after using a full-sized box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap, costing but 75c." (Signed) Mrs. W. E. Lewis, Nov. 25, 1911.

For treating poor complexions, red, rough hands, and dry, thin and falling hair, Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment have been the world's favorites for more than a generation. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Ad Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

TODAY IS BRISTOL DAY

THE BRISTOL BRA MILLS

THIS changeable, chilling fall weather calls for light warm underwear. That's the Bristol Mills kind. It's made of fine-gauge yarns closely knitted. It gives lots of warmth without that unnecessary, burdensome weight you've found so uncomfortable in other makes of fall and winter goods. Frills and cuffs are "looped-on," not seamed; and all body seams are lock-stitched and covered. The professional buyers for the big stores acknowledge that Bristol Mills garments are the biggest underwear values in the market in this class of goods, and they know.

The Bristol Mills Shield is on tag seam in every garment.

Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

Royal Baking Powder exceeds others in leavening power, in purity and wholesomeness, and is used generally in families, exclusively in the most celebrated hotels and restaurants, by the United States Army and Navy, and wherever the best and finest food is required. Teachers of cooking schools and lecturers upon culinary matters use and recommend the Royal.

Royal is the only baking powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar. It is admittedly the best and most healthful baking powder made.

PLAN SUIT TO STOP R. R. DEAL

The possibility of criminal prosecution of New Haven officials, if investigation by the Department of Justice shows facts to warrant it, was developed by the actions of Attorney-General Wickersham today.

This decision was reached because the officials are unable to see what could be accomplished by a civil suit, and the Federal government could not force the Grand Trunk, a foreign corporation, to complete its projected extensions in Southern New England.

Mr. Wickersham has sent Special Agent William H. Benham to New York to inspect the correspondence between Mr. Mellen of the New Haven, and President Chamberlin of the Grand Trunk, relative to the agreement between the roads which is alleged to be a violation of the Sherman law.

Wise in Conference.

If the investigators find evidence to warrant an injunction to prevent the roads entering into effect the agreement, proceedings will be started at once, either at New York or Boston. It was announced that District Attorney Wise had been summoned to Washington to confer with Mr. Wickersham.

Meanwhile, in Boston, Special Agent Frederick P. Schmidt of the department, with other agents, is investigating the facts in connection with the abandonment of the Grand Trunk extension.

Similar investigations are being made in Maine, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

Special Assistant Attorney-General Jesse Adkins, in charge of the investigation, explained the suspension of the Grand Jury investigation started by District Attorney Wise in New York. He said:

No "Immunity Baths."

If we had all of the principals testify before the Grand Jury we could get all the facts, no doubt, but the men would then be immune from prosecution. We would have the facts, but would have nobody to prosecute, as their testimony would give them immunity from personal action.

We are making the investigation with all haste and thoroughness, proposing to get the facts without giving immunity to any of those involved in the negotiations.

Adkins refused to outline the precise course of prosecution with which the government will proceed. He said:

We will have access to all correspondence in the railroad office regarding the transaction. This has been offered by Presidents Mellen and Chamberlin, and accepted by the department.

Vigorous denial was made by the department officials that orders to stop the Grand Jury proceedings in New York following long distance telephone entreaties from J. Pierpont Morgan, William Rockefeller or other Wall street heads, subpoenaed as witnesses. Mr. Adkins admitted, however, that subpoenas for many money barons and railroad chiefs in New York had been prepared when the Grand Jury work was halted. He said:

Favor Special Probe.

Mr. Wickersham believed a special investigation by our own agents would give better results—and quicker—than the slow, tedious process before the Grand Jury, with its possible chance of giving immunity to those against whom proceedings might be brought.

Conferences were held between Attorney Adkins and the Railroad Commissioners of Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. It was stated that the New England officials, upon being apprised of the department's plans, made no objections and expressed satisfaction with the procedure. They refused to discuss the case.

President Mellen and other members of the New Haven directorate, who attended a meeting of the board at the Grand Central Station, denied that the subject of the Grand Trunk's new arrangement with the New England transportation situation has been mentioned.

They explained that it was a regular monthly meeting, at which only routine business was discussed. None of them would talk further for publication.

M'ALEER DAUGHTERS LOSE FIGHT TO TAKE OVER OLD LANDMARK

Four daughters of the late millionaire Patrick McAleer lost their petition directing the State Street Trust Company, as trustee under their father's will, to take possession of a carpenter shop on Province street, formerly occupied by John McAleer, their brother. Judge Grant, who dismissed the petition, appointed an auditor to hear the reading of four accounts by the trust company. An estate of $1,000,000 was left to the children. The carpenter shop is an old landmark.

The Spirit of Christmastide—

Embodied in a Marvelous Gathering of Wonderful Toys, Beautiful Foreign and Domestic Novelties and a Thousand Tokens of Good Cheer

BIDS YOU WELCOME TO

Boston's Greatest Toy Store

"THE HOME OF WONDERS THAT NEVER CEASE—IN TOYS."

We have made a store for the child for Christmas, and we have peopled it as is peopled the childish imagination when it contemplates this joyous, wondrous, once-a-year occasion—when the youngster can have "anything he (or she) wishes for." Many months in this country and abroad—thousands of dollars in money, tireless care and unremitting search, preceded the realization of this great exhibition. Now it is all complete—and we have arranged everything so conveniently that it will make your shopping here a delight in many time-saving ways.

Separate Sections in This Great Store Devoted Exclusively to the Following:

A Section for Games
A Section for Wooly Toys and Animals
A Section for Vehicles
A Section for Christmas Tree Ornaments
A Section for Picture Projectors. Lanterns, etc.
A Section for Play Suits
A Section for Doll Houses
A Section for Mechanical Toys

Quantities of these were selected by our buyer at the great fairs of Europe—where she spent three months—and are not only unique and original but absolutely EXCLUSIVE here. These are not necessarily expensive, but come at a complete range of prices, from low to high-priced.

Parents will be quick to realize the advantage in shopping here where everything is arranged in conveniently located sections reached by broad aisles and with ample elevator service.

It is none too early to buy the Christmas toys NOW. To do so means leisurely choosing when stocks are freshest and most complete, and before the assortment of foreign novelties (articles which cannot be duplicated) is broken. We advise all who can to shop early and profit by these advantages.

GILCHRIST CO

A Million Dollars' Business Between Now and January 1st

Is the Slogan of the Greater Gilchrist Store

Store-Keeping with us is an open book—no secrets—no mystery—

It is simply this—

Supplying more New England people with better goods at lower prices than ever before.

Not ALL bargains, in the general sense of the word, but all wonderfully good merchandise and more real bargains than ever before offered.

SPECIALIZING makes this possible.

We have studied the wants of New England people, found out what goods are in greatest demand, and specialized.

One Million Dollars' business between now and January 1st is the mark we have set.

We will meet this figure because the Greater Gilchrist Store offers superior advantages in every way—more specialized departments—better merchandise in those grades most in demand—better service—lower prices.

Gilchrist's, always a good place to shop, NOW better than ever.

Eloper Finds Self Chauffeur's Bride, Not His Employer's

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Alma Givins, formerly of Detroit and divorced wife of Robert S. Givins, was arrested today to find she had married a chauffeur, and not his employer.

After eloping to Crown Point, Ind., with a man whom she believed to be a son of Marshall M. Kirkman, former vice-president of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company, she was told that the man was only Mr. Kirkman's employe.

At the marriage, which took place at 2 o'clock in the morning, the bridegroom gave his name as "Edw. rd K. Kirkman." There is no member of the Kirkman family by that name.

Servants in the Kirkman household assert that "Edward E. Kirkman" in reality is William Boehm, Mr. Kirkman's chauffeur, recently released from service. Detectives are searching for Boehm.

SHELL CORN IN BIG CONTEST

A feature of the corn exposition in Horticultural Hall this afternoon will be a corn shelling-out contest. There are eighty entries and the contest will require a ton and one-half of corn. The requirements call for the 1-4 forty pounds of corn on the cob which will shell out the largest number of pounds of shelled corn. The weighing and shelling will be done in the contest hall by an electrical machine. The judges will be George E. Taylor, Jr., of Dorchester, and Perley Davis of Granby.

TRY TO IDENTIFY 'FUNK MESSAGE'

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—"Personal identification" of the sender will be sought by Dr. James H. Hyslop, secretary of the American Psychical Society, who says he has just received messages from other worlds, which he believes, are from Dr. Isaac Kaufman Funk, the late president of Funk & Wagnalls, publishers. Dr. Funk, prior to his death, declared he would spin through the Milky Way in his aSaac ship.

Dr. Hyslop is firm in the belief Dr. Funk's spirit will come forward within the next few days with proper credentials.

Benjamin F. Funk, vice-president of the Funk & Wagnalls Company, while not a spiritualist, says he is open to conviction. He told of an instance where he went to a medium and, despite the fact that he had not identified himself, the psychic person soon told him that "I. K." wanted to speak to "B. F." He explained the matter of letters by saying that he and his brother always addressed each other by their initials. He gained his first knowledge of the spiritualistic world, he says, during the time his brother, now dead, made a study of the stars in his little "solarium" at their home in Montclair, N. J.

The medium, on being asked for some further message, said his mother wished to speak to him. She advised that he get the leaf from the family Bible, which was in a bureau drawer at their home, and put it back in the book on the table in the parlor. Mr. Funk continued:

A little mystified and trying hard to consider the message as a false one, I went to my home. I told my wife, and together we went to the bureau in question and began our search. Both of us were sceptical as we came toward the end of the search when a leaf, partly yellow with age appeared. It was from the family Bible.

It contained a record of births of the family. The book, which lay in the parlor on the centre table, used to be inspected, I believe, by young men who called upon my sister, and she, like other women, did not wish to parade such evidence of her age.

MRS. CARNEGIE IS NO SUFFRAGETTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—"I'm not a suffragette," said Mrs. Andrew Carnegie to the members of the New York Oratorio Society, of which Mr. Carnegie is president. Both Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie made short speeches, the former speaking of his own early efforts in oratorio and the latter of her appreciation of the society's work, ending with the announcement that she was not a suffragette.

LUNCHEON BY LADD WEDDING ATTENDANT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Miss Josephine Mason, who will be one of the attendants at the marriage of Miss Alice Boutell to J. W. Brooks Ladd of Boston on Thanksgiving Day, entertained Miss Boutell and her attendants at luncheon. The table was decorated in yellow, and as souvenirs the place cards were tiny ladies (Ladd) a play on the bridegroom's name.

His Landlady's Advice Probably Saved His Life

I feel that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved my life. I inherited weak kidneys. The discharge was so frequent and painful that I would have to stay in bed to obtain temporary relief. I consulted good physicians but the results were disappointing. My landlady advised me to try Swamp-Root as the last resort, which I did and I was quickly relieved.

I continued taking Swamp-Root and my weight has increased fifty pounds. My health is of the best and I have told many others about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root and have done a lot of good in this way. Your wonderful medicine is of great value to mankind.

Yours very truly,
J. H. BRUKEY,
835 Main St. Pawtucket, R. I.

The above statement made before me I declare to be truthful in every detail.

ONE DOSE MAKES INDIGESTION GO

Heartburn, Gas, Dyspepsia and All Stomach Distress Ended with "Pape's Diapepsin."

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain, unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble have made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lies like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember, as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders are a revelation to those who try it.

Big News Coming in Contest

Meanwhile, Keep on Working

MRS. ROSE FRANK

Candidates for the Great Prizes Have Their Big Chance.

BY THE CONTEST EDITOR.

Everybody knows the Contest Editor is to make three important announcements in the Sunday AMERICAN.

But, Friend Contestants, while waiting for Sunday, please don't "meander."

Remember that popular musical comedy song of five or six years ago, "Waiting."

The chorus began:

"Waiting, while you're waiting,
How the time just meanders along."

That's a sheer waste of time, meandering.

Stir Around and Be Busy.

Contestants, while waiting for the Sunday AMERICAN, stir around and be busy. The Contest Editor's one best tip today is: candidates is for each to get ten or twenty or thirty subscriptions before Sunday. Don't ask questions now, but get busy. You will realize the soundness of this advice Sunday.

The three announcements to be made Sunday of such great importance to all candidates in the AMERICAN'S great $40,000 Contest are as follows:

First—The first vote standing, containing a record of all coupon and subscription votes received by the Contest Department up to 10 p. m. last Saturday night.

Second—The announcement of the winners of the $1,645 special prizes.

Third—A special announcement by the Contest Editor of vital importance to every candidate.

Real Surprise Coming.

There will be real surprises in these announcements.

The Contest Editor is well aware that some candidates have hypnotized themselves into thinking that they cannot win, just because the value of the prizes is so great.

But when these candidates scan this note list Sunday they will find that none need be discouraged.

The Contest Editor wishes to take the pessimistic candidate by the hand, so to speak, and assure him or her that anyone who makes half an effort will receive ample reward for such effort.

In addition to the capital prize of $10,000, there are five prizes of $1,000 and 1,695 other Big awards.

Worth Working For.

It is a maxim of life that anything worth having is worth the work necessary to acquire it.

If you think $10,000 is worth having, are you not willing to do adequate work for it?

If you think a thousand-dollar cash prize is worth a hustle, will you not exert yourself?

That's just the way to look at this Contest situation. It's a case of work and a big, satisfactory reward.

In national and State elections the returns from the Cape District are anxiously watched by political wiseacres. No campaign in recent years has caused more enthusiasm than the candidacy of Mrs. Rose Frank, of No. 106 Oak street, Middleboro, in the AMERICAN'S $40,000 Contest.

Cape Cod folks from Middleboro to Provincetown are working hard to place her up among the leaders for the $10,000 prize. And when Cape Cod gets "busy"—look out!

TELLS MRS. DOWD OF MISSING SON

The story of the disappearance of Frank Dowd, Jr., of No. 569 Talbot avenue, Dorchester, the publication of which in the AMERICAN resulted in locating the boy at Canoble Lake, N. H., drew also a letter to Mrs. Dowd from another anxious mother. This letter read:

78 Ballou avenue,
Dorchester, Mass.,
November 20, 1912.

Dear Mrs. Dowd: I saw in last night's AMERICAN that your boy disappeared on November 10. My son, who is seventeen years old, disappeared that night. Perhaps they know each other.

I received a postal from my son from New York on November 13. It said that he arrived safely there November 12. I have not heard from him since. I am very anxious about him for he had no friends in New York or any money.

I thought it strange that they disappeared the same night and do not live so very away from each other.

MRS. D. JOHNSON.

Another letter received by Mrs. Dowd read:

Woonsocket, R. I.,
November 19.

Mrs Dowd: Having seen the picture of your son in the Boston AMERICAN I am pretty sure I saw him here last Tuesday. I will describe the boy I saw, hoping it is your son.

He had on a mixed gray coat, blue knee pants with strap, navy blue cap, black shoes and stockings. He talked very slow. He looked as though his eyes were weak. He had black hair. He asked me about a train for Boston. He said that he lived there. I saw him again Wednesday. Hoping that this letter will bring encouragement to you.

HAIR STOPS FALLING, DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS---25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Save your Hair! Beautify it! Invigorate your scalp! Danderine grows hair and we can prove it.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

ATTRIDGE TO TALK AT SALVATION ARMY DINNER THIS YEAR

John T. Attridge, president of the City Council, will open the festivities at the dinner to be given in Pelopie's Palace on Thanksgiving Day by the Salvation Army, and will give a brief talk to the children. The Army is planning to feed altogether some 3,000 needy children and widows. Widows and children will have meals delivered at their homes during the morning. 1,500 meals all told, and a dinner will be served for 2,000 at the Industrial Home, No. 134 Hampden street, and at the Rescue and Maternity Home in Cambridge.

Colonel and Mrs. Gifford will superintend all the work.

CAMBRIDGE K. OF C. HAS ANNUAL DINNER AT AMERICAN HOUSE

Two hundred and fifty Knights of Columbus attended the seventeenth annual banquet of Cambridge Council No. 74 at the American House.

The speakers included Mayor J. Edward Barry of Cambridge, District-Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier, supreme advocate; Congressman James M. Curley, the Rev. John J. Ryan, permanent rector of St. Paul's Church, Cambridge, and chaplain of the council; State Deputy Louis Watson, ex-Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, State Secretary Philip L. McMahon and Major Thomas L. Walsh.

AEROPLANE ENGINE EXPLODES AT START OF DISTANCE FLIGHT

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—The hydro-aeroplane of Tony Jannus was destroyed by fire just as he was starting on a flight from St. Louis to New Orleans.

Jannus and his companion, W. H. Trafts, a photographer, jumped and escaped injury.

The engine backfired as it was being started and flames enveloped the hydroplane. Spectators, after Jannus and Trafts had jumped to safety, pushed the blazing machine in the river.

The photographer saved a moving picture machine, but lost his view camera.

PETROLEUM STILL FLOWS FROM GROUND IN WILLIAMSTOWN

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 22.—Petroleum is still flowing from the ground at the Sand Springs here, where, Tuesday afternoon, workmen made the discovery while digging a hole for a telephone pole.

Dr. S. L. Lloyd, owner of the grounds, has placed a sample with Professor Leverett E. Mears of Williams College for analysis. Professor Mears said it was without a doubt petroleum, with an odor like gas arising from it.

LAST DE FERRARI SUIT DISMISSED

Judge Grant, in the Suffolk Probate Court, today dismissed the petition for separate support brought by Justina M. De Ferrari against her husband, Joseph R. De Ferrari, a Back Bay fruit dealer. The hearing has been pending for several months and was dismissed by agreement.

The fight is to be continued in Pittsburgh, the home of Mrs. De Ferrari. It understood that she has brought a divorce suit there.

The troubles of the De Ferrari's have been aired in the courts for the past two years. On January 13, 1909, Mrs. De Ferrari petitioned the probate court here for separate support. Last Spring he brought suit but the court dismissed the libel.

This was followed by the kidnaping of their seven-year-old son by the father from the School of the Assumption at Wellesley Hills. An officer recovered the child and the little boy was placed in the charge of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children.

On July 2 of this year little Giovanni was placed in the custody of both parents, each to have him for six months of the year. Mrs. De Ferrari renewed her petition for separate support on June 17. Pending a hearing, her husband was ordered to pay her $25 down and $15 each week. That order was revoked the middle of last September.

MRS. DE FERRARI, WHO LOSES SUIT FOR SEPARATION

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The insufficient illumination of the rear number on automobiles is furnishing another ground for the conviction of motorists. What might be considered as a crusade against automobile owners and operators has been inaugurated by several of the cities near Boston, and in one or two sections of Boston itself.

In recent years the automobile manufacturers have seen fit to place upon the right rear mud guard a number-plate holder, while the lamp is attached close to the left rear mud guard, so arranged that the white light will be thrown more or less distinctly upon the number-plate.

It has been shown in court in the case of more than one person that in the opinion of certain police, supported by the decision of certain judges, this method of lighting is insufficient. It behooves all people who drive at night to hereafter pay some little attention to the matter of illuminating their rear numbers.

The police in Somerville, Cambridge and Brighton have been very active during the past two weeks and many drivers who previously had felt that they were living up to the spirit and letter of the law have paid a few dollars to learn otherwise.

Mr. Bartlett is well known among local motorists and dealers and has been busy receiving their best wishes for success in his new field, where he will locate December 1.

TWO TRACK SAME DEER; ONE KILLED

BLANCHARD, Me., Nov. 22.—Fred N. Spencer, a prominent business man of Monson, four miles from here, is dead from a rifle bullet in the head received while trailing a deer in the woods here. Charles Tyler of Foxcroft, who is said to have fired the shot, is prostrated as a result of the affair. He said that he did not know Spencer was in the vicinity and that he and Spencer evidently were following the same tracks. When he saw the bushes ahead of him move, Tyler said, he thought it was the deer, and fired.

Are You a Man or a Monkey?

ANY MARRIED MAN OR WOMAN MAY ANSWER

It's the Best Since "How Old Is Ann?"

Here's the best thing since "How Old Is Ann?"

Are you a man or a monkey; or, if you are a man, wouldn't you just as soon be a monkey?

That's as clear as a chocolate sundae, isn't it? This letter, however, will explain:

"City Editor, Boston AMERICAN:

"Dear Sir—A. is a married woman. B. a married man. A. claims it is no more than right, and also proper, for a man to get the milk and rolls for the morning meal.

"B. claims that it is not right, and, unless the wife is ill, any man that does so is a monkey.

"I have two small children and am glad to be a so-called 'monkey's' wife.

"I would like to hear the opinion of the men, the monkeys and the wives.

DAILY READER."

Now, what do you think? Do you as a man consider it right to stay in your warm, comfy bed these chilly mornings, and let sweet little wifey go shivering to the door after the breakfast food?

Maybe you do. If so, you've got a good reason for saying so. Send it along if you have.

Or perhaps you agree with the writer of the letter that it is preferable to be a "monkey" and let your wife have that much-coveted extra five minutes in the hay while you go out and fish in the snow for that bottle of milk and the rolls.

No matter what you think, send your opinion into the "Editor, Boston AMERICAN, 30-32 Summer street, Boston."

Miss Grosvenor and George P. Gardner to Wed Late in January

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 22.—The wedding of Miss Rose G[illegible]enor, daughter of Mrs. William Grosvenor, of Newport, to Mr. George Peabody Gardner, Jr., son of Mrs. George P. Gardner of No. 186 Beacon street, Boston, will take place in Providence the last week in January, probably on the 28th, at the Grosvenor Winter home, No. 51 Prospect street, according to report here today.

Miss Grosvenor has selected her sister, Miss Anita D. Grosvenor as maid of honor with Miss Freda Paine of Newport and Miss Eleanor Boelter of East Greenwich, R. I., as bridesmaids.

Miss Grosvenor's brothers and sisters are Mrs Dudley Davis of New York; Mrs. G. Maurice Congdon of Providence; William Grosvenor of Providence; Robert Grosvenor, a junior at Harvard; Miss Anita Grosvenor, at Framingham School, and Theodore Grosvenor who is at Groton School. All will be present, and the groom's only sister, Mrs. Francis P. Boyer of New Bedford, is also expected to be at the wedding.

TAFT FREES BOY, 15, AND FATHER OF MOTHERLESS BABY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Compassion for a fifteen-year-old boy in ill-health, and for a motherless six-year-old child, induced President Taft to order the release of two federal prisoners.

The four-year sentence of the boy, Ivan McClarty, convicted at Columbus, O., in 1909, of breaking into postoffices at Peoria, O., and Pottersburg, O., was commuted to expire at once. He is confined in the boys' industrial school at Lancaster, O., and his sentence would have expired in January.

John R. Yount, sentenced at Atlanta, April last, to one year and one day in the penitentiary for illicit distilling, was given his liberty to care for his motherless child.

1,200 DEAD, TOWNS LIE IN RUIN AFTER QUAKE IN MEXICO; VOLCANO IS ACTIVE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—Twelve hundred persons at least and possibly hundreds more lost their lives in the disaster spread by the earthquake in Mexico Tuesday.

Official reports are coming today from points from which communication has been cut off. The heaviest loss of life occurred in the towns of Acambay and Timilpa, and in several nearby small villages.

Two churches fell, one at Acambay crushing down while it was filled with people attending early mass, and killing every person in the edifice.

Both towns are in ruins. Great fissures were opened in the streets and nearly every building was destroyed.

The volcano in the stricken district has become active and is pouring forth lava and ashes.

Pestilence is feared from the hundreds of bodies of victims buried in the ruins of the towns.

From Jacaltizan, Jiquipilco and Morelos come reports that many buildings were destroyed at each place and many lives lost.

LOWELL, Nov. 22.—Inspector Charles LaFlamme of the police force is dead at his home in Pawtucketville. He was in his earlier days one of the best known police inspectors in Massachusetts.

LABOR MEN USE 'STEAM ROLLER'

By PHILIP J. HALVOSA.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Steam-roller tactics were adopted by the regulars at the A. F. of L. convention today, in an endeavor to secure final adjournment this week.

Three days' valuable time has been consumed by the radical element already this week, in a vain attempt to force through three measures. With 129 resolutions to act upon, the convention today put the steam-roller to work, to flatten out the opponents. Business commenced with a snap that swept the opposition off its feet. Filibustering met with no encouragement. Even the loss prominent of the Socialists took a hand in the game of checkmating some of the obstructionists within their own ranks.

The Sherman Anti-Trust law amendments to be demanded, the question of revoking the International Association of Steam Fitters' charter, and the resolution calling for the attention of officers by referendum vote still are pending.

Under normal circumstances either of these questions would be made the subject for a day's debate by the obstructionists. And that without allowing for the time sure to be taken up by the opposition in an endeavor to prevent the return to office of the present administration.

With the steam-roller under a full head of steam and tuned up in great shape, however, it is now thought that final adjournment may come tomorrow night.

JEWISH CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY GIVES PLAY NEXT WEEK

An ardent lover's inability to propose or even sign a sweetheart's name is the major complication in the three act comedy "Busy" to be given by the Jewish Child Welfare Aid Society in Jordan Hall Nov. 30.

There will be special scenery and a concert by the Boston Young Men's Hebrew Association orchestra. Many of those who made such a success of last year's production "The Man on the Box" are in the cast this year, notably Miss Fay Harrison and Benjamin G Rosenkrans. Two newcomers who have won distinction in amateur theatricals are Miss Anne Segal and Miss Sara E Mazur. Others in the cast are the Misses Isabelle H Church, and Flora Green, Louis Sunzer, Charles Johnson, Charles Cohn, Maxwell Feldman, Louis Harwitz. Nathan Freedman and Harry Rosenkrans.

Samuel B Pinkel is to be stage manager, Cheri Goodman assistant. Charles Gifkins publicity, Fanny Feldman, tickets and Goodie Feinstein, advertising.

RUSSELL SEES BIG OPERA YEAR

Director Henry Russell of the Boston Opera House on the eve of the opera season's opening, predicts a brilliant season. He declares he is gratified by the increased patronage. He says:

In matters operatic, optimism usually is better after achievement than before it. At least it is safer. And yet, salient conditions as regards the coming season at the Boston Opera House seem to justify indulgence in the sincerest optimism even now, before the first performance is given.

That public interest in the operatic offerings is keener and more wider in its reach than it has been at the commencement of any of the previous years is evidenced in a most unmistakable and substantial way. The subscription sale has been heavier than or any o the preceding three seasons, and the sections of the preceding three seasons, and the sections of the house by which many of those subscriptions have been taken give reason for especial satisfaction.

It is not alone the more expensive places that have been more heavily subscribed for, but the demand for seats in the balcony and the gallery has seen quite unprecedented in the experience of the Opera House. This demand certainly warrants the conclusion that a large section of the public which heretofore has been either indifferent to the work being done by the company or unable to patronize it has responded to the opportunities offered and is availing itself of them.

To this, planned they have been selected with as wide catholicity as the constitution of our organization will permit. I feel that both the French and Italian schools are to be worthily exemplified in what we have planned, and that our selections from the German albeit necessarily limited, do not, without value. As for the novelties, they are as numerous as the length of the season makes feasible.

"The Tales of Hoffmann" might seem at first glance a somewhat light offering, but the manner in which it is done to do it win we believe make any such estimate unjustifiable. The commanding and barbaresque of the offenbachian opera bills which have been incorporated in this opera in the past have been eliminated and the work which will be presented on Monday night will be in the spirit and mood of the opera fantastique which the composer intended and desired. At least such is our purpose. It will be fantastic opera, but it will be grand opera, not opera bouffe.

"Louise," "Jewels of the Madonna" and "The Secret of Suzanne" certainly may be considered as standing for the best that is obtainable in the line of the finest French and Italian opera creations of the present day. Mme. Tippinelli, we feel, is deserving of hearing in all seasons. Mr. Amerita's "Force Bleue" opens not only as an absolute novelty . . . it is the latest word in fairy tale opera.

As for "Don Giovanni," aside from the imperishable beauty of the work which is itself certainly justifies the Boston Opera House, there as will be produced every year at least one of the great classic masterpieces.

The company is one of the best we yet have had. There are many stagers of fame and the casts will contain as many of these established artists as is in keeping with the artistic purpose governing every offering made at the Opera House. That purpose is now, as it has been in the past, the obtaining of the best possible ensemble regardless of the celebrity or salary of the particular singer appearing.

URGES SHIP LINE TO STOCKHOLM

A steamship line between Boston and Stockholm, before the opening of the Panama Canal, was predicted by Jonas Hemmer, delegate to the Swedish National Congress of Engineers and Shipbuilders, who is here to select ships for the line. He is at the Somerset. Discussing it, he said: "Mr. Alfred Yates, the American consul, visited Sweden last year and predicted that a Boston-Stockholm line would flourish. Big ships will be able to pass through the canal and will not have to call at Halifax for New York and will go direct to Boston."

Here Hemmer said:

"We want the people of Boston to know our products and American progress with which we are very proud of them. We want exports as well as imports. We are offering the best kinds of Scandinavian timber for Sweden, which is a country of forests."

A steamship line to Boston from Scandinavia was favorably discussed by the delegates to the congress, which is in session in Boston.

TECH APPEAL TO ALUMNI FOR BIG BUILDING FUND

[illegible] report of the alumni fund committee, which continues:

Unified Scheme of Buildings.

Mr. Freeman, assisted by a considerable staff, is now giving his whole time to correcting the reports of [illegible] and to preparing a unified scheme for the new buildings, both as to their architectural treatment, varying with the needs of each, and with economy of floor [illegible] for new departments. Proper credit will be given to the architects of any group of buildings, or single building, constructed from time to time, and a general plan for the whole will be issued in the form of a booklet, containing a few words, by way of explanation.

During the last decade the methods of student life at the Institute have been greatly developed with such a serious result that on a number of the important social functions as well as of the athletic festivals during the new Technology the feature

Says Women Can Cut Living Cost By Better Home Management

That household management must become a science, to cut the high cost of living, was the statement of Professor Frank W. Spear of the Boston Y. M. C. A. to the Melrose Women's Club.

He told the mothers they themselves were responsible for high living costs through bad management. He said:

The only remedy of the high cost of living for poor women is to develop the science of household management. You do things the way your great grandmother did. You pay for costly delivery, such as the delivery of a yeast cake with a pair of horses and you buy meat without ever having seen it.

It is all up to you. You have not kept up the science of running your house the way electrical science has gone ahead.

[illegible] be given special consideration. As [illegible] matter of fact, [illegible] have been interested in [illegible] financial assistance, the president has appointed a special alumni committee to devise some plan for increasing the buildings and grounds for social and athletic purposes.

The committee emphasizes the point that there is a mistaken idea that Tech now has all the money it needs. Outside of the fund already raised at the $2,500,000 from Mr. Smith, there is nearly [illegible] ning of the other funds of the [illegible] ning the new Tech and [illegible] ning of grounds. Most of the other funds are tied up for special purposes or must be applied to meet deficits.

Appeal to Tech Men.

The committee appeals to Tech men, saying:

The two and one-half millions from Mr. "Smith" are to be used solely for building the educational buildings. Except for the Walker Memorial fund of $340,000, the alumni fund now being pushed is the only money available for the equipment of the educational buildings, the laying out of the grounds, and the building and equipment of dormitories, athletic field, gymnasium, and an adequate Walker memorial.

The president has pledged himself to Mr. "Smith" that, in view of the latter's munificent gift for the educational buildings, the Tech men would be depended upon to show their loyalty by providing the other funds necessary for the complete and suitable development of the new institute.

The alumni fund now amounts to $450,000, pledged by two thousand men. Seven thousand other Tech men have not yet subscribed at all, although a very considerable number of these will doubtless be glad to contribute when they realize the institute's needs.

VAN ALLEN AND WENDELL CLASH

"I wish we might have a little more of the spirit of Pilgrim simplicity—Dr. W. H. van Allen.

"I question whether a man has departed from the simplicity of our fathers, just because he has a motor car.—Professor Barrett Wendell.

The Rev. W. H. van Allen and Professor Barrett Wendell of Harvard came into conflict in their talk to the members of the Massachusetts Society of Mayflower Descendants at their seventeenth annual dinner, held at the Hotel Vendome. It was the 292d anniversary of the "sailing of the compact" by the Pilgrim Fathers. Dr. van Allen said:

The year 1912, perhaps, is at last to begin the self-same decadent, corrupt [illegible] which marked the Roman Empire on its social side.

In reading to-day's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" I observed in the enumeration of the social conditions preceding the fall of Rome one of the principal causes of its downfall indicated as marital infelicities and self-seeking which is the curse of American society of today.

At this dinner all these abominable and [illegible] of life are [illegible] which tend toward the breaking up of family life and the destruction of the marital bond have their modern flavor.

Sometimes I wish that we might have a little more of the spirit of Pilgrim simplicity.

We may best honor the memory of our Pilgrim ancestors when we give our lives to perfecting that which they began, to developing the spirit which they planted and to welding the forces of courage, progress, purity, simplicity and solidarity into something which shall make for the betterment of all its citizens.

Professor Wendell declared that in his opinion living in such a way as to pass on to one's descendants the full strength inherited from one's forbears was the first duty. He said:

I believe that one of the best things we can do is not to meddle in a retrogressive spirit with the conduct of others, so long as that conduct hurts no one but themselves. What I particularly detest in modern Socialism is its interference with individual liberty and conduct.

Excess in alcohol is, in my opinion, a tremendous social evil, but one which is hideously enhanced by the tyranny of prohibition.

If the Lord will deal with us as well as he did with our fathers I think there will be no need to despair of the future of the Republic.

JUDGE WARMLY DEFENDS SAILORS

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Judge Sulzberger, in charging a jury in a disorderly house case, warmly defended the sailors saying: "They are the people who carry on the maritime commerce of the country and defend its honor in the time of war. You are not to stamp a man as infamous simply because he is a sailor."

URGES CENTRAL AMERICAN UNION

MEN'S STORE—A NOTABLE SALE

We have very special news to convey concerning things you'll buy. Therefore, there is large wisdom in your examining the items. Our justification in asking you to do this lies in the fact that you will acquire accurate information which, if acted upon, will save you a day's—or perhaps a week's—income, according to the extent of your purchases.

$2.50 NEGLIGEE SHIRTS SPECIAL AT $1.65

Men's High-grade Pleated-bosom Negligee Shirts—Coat model, attached laundered cuffs, pleats extending down into the skirt; woven madras, Scotch designs on medium and dark grounds and two-toned Russian corded stripes on light grounds.

Colors! What of them? They are guaranteed not to fade or run

The manufacturer had more $2.50 Shirts than he could sell. He reduced the price. We bought. You may buy them for $1.65.

$3.00 UNION SUITS SPECIAL $1.45

A prominent manufacturer's salesroom samples of Ecru, Balbriggan, Ribbed Gray and Wool Union Suits. The assortment ranges up to and includes $3.00 qualities. It is values like these that make history for our Men's Store—history that keeps it pleasantly in the minds of thrifty buyers.

Mr. Old School Merchant would mix such lots with his regular stock and ask regular prices for them. Our policy is to give every advantage that we get. Hence these Union Suits at $1.45.

69c for $1.00 Shirts and Drawers, medium weight, jersey-ribbed worsted—which is the preference of so many men.

WOOL JERSEY KNIT SWEATERS SIDE POCKETS, ADJUSTABLE COLLAR, VERY SPECIAL VALUE, AT $4.00

$5 BLANKET BATHROBES SPECIAL AT $2.95

These Bathrobes are full of human interest because they supply very personal human need. Married men, keeping house or boarding; bachelors, apartmenting or hoteling—who merely have to step across a door sill or pick a chance to steal down a flight of stairs, or creep along the length of a hall to reach the bathroom, will find a Blanket Robe a cosy comfort. Many men are without one simply because its usefulness has never been directly forced upon their minds.

We are attempting to impress the psychology of Bathrobes upon your thought. Here's the economic side: Bathrobes made of soft, fleecy blankets—Jacquard figures in gray-and-Oxford, gray-and-red, blue-and-gray and other combinations; side pockets, mercerized neck cord and girdle; made to sell at $5.00; special at $2.95.

MEN'S BEST-LIKED WINTER GLOVES ADLER'S TAN MOCHA GLOVES SEE THEM—BUY THEM $1.00

$2.50 KNITTED SCARFS CHOICE $1.15

Accordion Four-in-Hands knitted on hand frames. These are the fine, genuine goods that have been so widely copied. The imitations, at first glance, may look like the originals, but they are much inferior. Degraded fibre and short-cut manufacturing processes will quickly show in the wear.

Our display includes plain weaves; cross, bias and bayadere stripes and lace effects in sedate or brilliant color combinations.

Their richness is the richness of bright silk threads—the natural sheen. You'll see them in all exclusive haberdashery shops at $2.50. Our price at $1.15.

$2.00 PAJAMAS AT $1.29

Made of chaviot, winter weight, fancy braided edges, large pearl buttons; the kind you've always bought at $2.00; special at $1.29.

$1.00 DOMET FLANNEL PAJAMAS 85c

Domet flannel ministered to many personal needs long before pajamas reached America. You know the stuff—have known it long and favorably. The patterns that were selected for these Pajamas are neat and unobtrusive—pearl buttons and frogs.

$1.00 TO $1.50 SHIRTS SPECIAL AT 68c

Men's Shirts, made of percale or printed madras, contrasting stripes on light and dark grounds; coat model, plain or pleated bosoms, attached laundered cuffs.

Men who haven't thought of paying less than $1.00 to $1.50 for their Shirts may come here during this sale and secure the quality and style they've had in mind—at 68c.

75c DOMET FLANNEL NIGHT SHIRTS AT 59c

Cut long and wide, made with collar, sizes from 15 to 20. A regular 75c value at 59c.

75c NIGHT SHIRTS AT 55c

Men's Night Shirts, made of good, heavy muslin, V-shaped neck or with collar, plain or trimmed. Regular prices were up to 75c; special at 55c.

TELL OF ATTACK UPON COUNTESS

GORHEN N Y Nov 22—With the taking of evidence almost completed the trial of Attorney Horton this morning for the murder of Countess Lone Mancuk Szabo was hurried before Justice Tompkins today. Gibson was stricken with acute kidney trouble during the night but showed no trace of illness when he entered court today. Justice Tompkins announced that the audience of counsel would be heard Monday.

Four witnesses for the prosecution were hastily brought from Greenwood Lake station today. They were Chester South operator of the launch which towed the boat containing the body of Countess Szabo to Ingraws a Hotel, Fred Hogan a guide who aided in finding the body, John Creighton station agent at Sterling Forest and Roy Ingraw. They were called to contradict the testimony of Thomas Gibson regarding the grounds on of the woman's arrest.

William H Dugsdale a farmer, told the jury that on the night before the coroner's inquest at Jersey City he had met John Minton on the train and had talked to him of the case in the

"He told me that he saw the occurrence and that he was sure that Gibson was attacking the woman but he could not see her, as Gibson was between him and Mrs. Szabo".

ST. VITUS' DANCE

The Cure of This Case Is of Vital Interest to the Parents of Every Nervous Child.

Mr. James F. Thompson, a well-known printer, of No. 301 West Iowa street, Memphis, Tenn has recently told of a cure in his family that will interest every nervous sufferer Parents of sick, nervous school children will be especially interested Mr. Thompson said

"I have a son, Ray, who at the age of five years was scared by some boys In about two weeks' time he broke down or gave away completely. He had to go to bed and the doctors said that he had St. Vitus' dance. During the entire night and for many nights he would lie awake and cry He could not sleep at all, but would roll and toss all night long His arms and head jerked and twitched and he became very nervous indeed. It got so that he could not even speak He had particularly bad spells which came on about every three months He was confined to bed for two months when he was first taken sick

"I had a nerve specialist and two of the best physicians in Memphis with him during the first year of the disease. They couldn't do anything for him and didn't help him a bit. Finally the last physician said that he would have to outgrow it I then bought a box of Dr Williams' Pink Pills They helped him right away and although he had been sick for a year and a half he began to eat and to gain strength I gave him the pills until he was entirely recovered his health. He has never had an attack of St. Vitus' dance since. He is attending school and is in perfect health."

St. Vitus' dance, nervous debility or neurasthenia, neuralgia, scalp affections headaches and nervous dyspepsia are due to tired, weak exhausted nerves The correct treatment in each case is to build up and purify the blood which alone can give the nerves nourishment Unless you build up the blood, it is useless to try to reach the nerves with medicine or nourishment Dr Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain the very elements which enable the blood to nourish the nerves until they become strong.

Write today for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid on receipt of price, 50c per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

OLIVE Tablets OIL the Bowels

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets, Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous causing bad after-effects

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of calomel Dr Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-colored tablets Olive Tablets are gentle but effective Safe and sure Pleasant to take but unfailing in results

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil

STATE RESTS IN TRIAL OF ELSIE RAYMOND

Mrs. Helen Raymond was on the verge of collapse when her murder trial was resumed. Her husband, Bert Raymond, said there had been an awful strain on her and that the women spectators in court brought to give her a fair deal.

Husband Pleads for Her.

Mrs. Raymond passed a restless night, tossing on her cot in the county jail. She was up early and was trying to eat breakfast in her cell when her husband came at 7 o'clock sharp to be with her a few minutes before court opened.

Bert Raymond came out of her cell at 7:45 and said:

"My wife is not feeling well today. There has been an awful strain on her.

"Our people say she does so much as being subjected to the gaze of so many women. They are not satisfied with looking at my wife in court all day, but they must follow her across the street to her jail.

"These women ought to treat her as they would like to be treated if they were in her place. They ought to give her a fair deal."

My wife passed a restless night. She tries to eat but she tossed about on her cot most of the night. She ate but little breakfast this morning.

Women Crowd Court.

Bert Raymond was strictly within the truth when he said that many women in court and their looking at his wife for a view for 50 per cent. of the attendance. They come early and stay late. They bring their luncheons, fearing if they go out they might not get back to their seats.

Mrs. Raymond was complaining about the crowding of women, for on Saturday already had flood the court to overflowing. Although court was not to open for an hour Deputy Sheriff Cox persons, more than one of the women were packed into the court room. There were a score of whom were the crowd.

An important one among the coming witnesses for the State today was to be Carrol Hopkins, the ill man whose deposition was taken, but who is to be brought into court to testify. He is a former employe at the Lenwood Hotel at Readfield Corners. His testimony is expected to relate to movements of Bert Raymond on the night of the murder.

Mrs. Raymond will take the stand in her own defense, but probably not today.

Noose That Killed Girl.

A description and a demonstration of the manner in which the cord that strangled her was knotted about the neck of Mattie Hackett was given in court by a witness.

Chairman Walter Nickerson of the Readfield Board of Selectmen, was the man who described the string with which the Hackett girl was garroted, and how it was tied. He identified that he first heard of the murder when Mrs. Hale and Harry Hackett came to his house on Nickerson Hill road to telephone for a doctor. He helped to carry Mattie to her house and cut the cord that strangled her.

The witness took a piece of cord and showed it about a pellet head handed to him by Attorney General Pattangall, then knotted it and showed how the hangman's noose and knots were situated with reference to the girl's neck.

Mrs. Raymond watched the illustration closely, but without any show of emotion. When the cord was sent to her counsel for examination, she leaned over the railing and glanced lightly at it. The original cord has been lost many years.

State Urges Insanity.

Medical testimony has figured in the State's case. The State indicated indirectly its willingness to accept a verdict of not guilty because of temporary insanity.

With the defense vigorously objecting and insisting that no question of insanity could enter into the case, Attorney General Pattangall sought to show by a medical witness that women frequently develop sudden insanity, which as quickly disappears.

Instead of admitting a plea of insanity caused for Elsie Raymond demanded an acquittal on the ground of the absolute innocence of their client.

It was during the testimony of Dr. Alfred H. Shurtleff, medical examiner, that Attorney-General Pattangall interjected insanity suggestion linked at in the opening address of County Attorney Williamson.

Dr. Shurtleff had testified regarding the autopsy performed on the body of Mattie Hackett and was then led into a review of his extensive medical experience.

Questions Doctor.

Q. Is it a recognized scientific fact among medical men that insanity frequently develops a form of insanity that disappears almost as quickly as it appears?

A. I think the experts in insanity say about 10 per cent. of certain forms of insanity are caused by such a condition.

The trial was suffered by a short [illegible] between Congressman Mcallister, counsel for Attorney General Pattangall, Proprietor Stevens of the Lenwood Hotel of Readfield and [illegible] testified. Bert Raymond worked for [illegible] the murder.

"Possibly I would like to recall Mr. Stevens," said Mcallister. "I want to do this before he goes abroad. I know Stevens."

"There is only a proper remark," retorted the Attorney General. "If the point we wish to testify he should take the witness stand."

In willing to testify, replied the Congressman.

"But I don't want to make you my witness," said the Attorney General.

Judge Wilkinson then stepped and stopped the [illegible].

Hazel Chadburn to Have Stage Career
Premier Dancer in "The College Hero"

Boston Theatrical Men Attracted by the Grace of Her Dancing in Amateur Musical Show.

MISS HAZEL CHADBURN OF NEW HAVEN

Miss Hazel Chadburn, of New Haven premier dancer in the society amateur musical production "The College Hero," faces a stage career if she chooses to accept.

Five Boston booking house managers, attracted by the grace of her dancing in the Spanish group, are watching her. Within a few days she will receive an ambition she has long cherished and become a professional dancer. She is now waiting in Boston discussing propositions with the managers.

Miss Chadburn is the daughter of Henry A. Chadburn of New Haven. She has starred in many amateur theatricals, but this will be her first appearance on the stage as a professional.

The College Hero" star views her career seriously. She says:

"My dancing depends entirely on the interpretation of the music. It is not the ordinary 'skipping music,' but it is supposed to show the meaning of the composer. And he had in mind when he wrote his piece.

"I never took up dancing before the presentation of 'The College Hero' in New Haven. I led the Spanish group, and made quite a hit. Then I wondered if I could make enough of my training to warrant a stage career, and when asked to take part in the Boston presentation I accepted. I wanted to see if I had stage presence and if not if I could cultivate it."

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

BY RILEY

HARVARD has been beaten Yale five games of football since the game was established in 1875. Harvard has tied Yale five times. Yale has won all the other games in the long classic series. But the game is different now than in the long, lean years of 1875 to 1890, when Harvard never won, and from 1890 to 1898, and from 1901 to 1908. Since Percy Haughton took charge at Cambridge Harvard won, 4 to 0, in 1908; lost, 8 to 0, in 1909, and played scoreless ties in 1910 and 1911. So that tomorrow's game is the "rubber" of the Haughton series.

* * *

IN the past four years Yale has scored but eight points and Harvard but four. It's a battle. Today Harvard went down to New Haven a hot favorite, just as in 1910. But the Crimson will not let pass the opportunity that faded away two years ago, when the game was several times within reach. At that time Harvard would have nothing but a touchdown, tomorrow the Cambridge team will accept everything it may get.

TOD HOLTON is interested in record years. Not since 1901 has Harvard scored one. In all those long years Harvard has scored but once, and that in 1909, when Vic Kenyon accepted the gauge at the goal of all Harvard scored against Yale. Holton and Kenyon combined in 1909 for seventy-three points against Yale, a number the Harvard backs failed to equal in the eight games played between Holton up to 1911 inclusive. While Harvard was piling up seventy-three points Yale failed to score.

* * *

BUT football was invented at Yale—perfected there, at least—which gave New Haven the advantage. Now Harvard has settled down to a system which is a persistent development of the Yale. Yale has not changed, but it has improved, and Harvard has followed in its footsteps. Harvard has made progress as it has, it has made it slowly, as if all things results the same way. Yale used to give Harvard a beating, but Harvard has come up to Yale's standard, and Yale has responded by greater interest throughout. Never, since the Yale-Harvard game began, has it been played with greater interest than it is now. Never has the Yale game meant so much to the followers of the year.

FOOTBALL games are played today with a well-outlined plan laid out ahead, much as a real battle is arranged. The scheme of attack does not consist of walking upon the other fellow to make mistakes or depending upon your own team to carry off sensational, spectacular and unexpected plays.

AT HARVARD, for instance, they are playing about as follows this year: Harvard plays a punting game throughout the first period, attempting few rushes, and gradually, by superiority of punting over the other fellow, forcing the ball, yard by yard, towards the opposition goal. If this plan has developed no injuries, a rush is usually started in the second period. If this fails to accomplish the desired result—a touchdown or a good opportunity for a field goal—another series of rushes follows. Whether this succeeds or not, Harvard rests its backs for the remainder of the period, making a few rushes, as a rule.

THE third period is somewhat of a repetition of the second, but is varied by the discoveries of the opposition's play made in the first half and revealed by the authorities off the field and the fighting eleven during the intermission. As a rule, one big series of rushes marks this period. In the last period Harvard wells and watches. At this time the opposition, usually having a less score than Harvard, resorts to desperate plays. Then the Crimson has its opportunity to boost the score.

"Lefty" Flynn and "Tacks" Hardwick Write Yale-Harvard Game for American

MONEY cannot buy a ticket to the Yale-Harvard game, to be played at New Haven next Saturday afternoon. Every available seat was disposed of long ago. Yale Field has a seating capacity of 34,000. Few more than that number will be privileged to witness what should prove one of the greatest athletic struggles of all college history.

Interest will not be confined to the lucky spectators. For every man, woman or child at the year's greatest classic there will be hundreds—yes, thousands—with eyes glued to the ticker, the bulletin board or some news service, if these do not follow the game play by play, either from the board or the bulletins, all will be interested to get the very best accounts of the contest in the daily journals.

To such as these the Boston AMERICAN has an announcement of great interest.

The Boston AMERICAN will have on hand at New Haven the most pretentious staff of football writers ever sent out to "cover" any sporting event. The AMERICAN staff numbers among its ranks the most widely known exponents of the exciting game.

First of all, there is HUNTINGTON R. HARDWICK, one of the fastest backs that ever donned moleskin for Harvard. Hardwick is a great line smasher and old-famed tackler and marvelous end sprinter. Then there is "LEFTY" FLYNN, one of Yale's greatest sensations of the past ten years, a great open field runner and the superlative of punting skill.

These two great players of Saturday's game are members of the Boston AMERICAN staff of writers. They will see the game as it is impossible to see it except from the ranks. And they will write exclusively for next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

Broder Will Coach Aggies' Hockey Team

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 21.—Manager W. S. Little of the Massachusetts Agricultural College hockey team has secured for the coming season Fred H. Broder of Ontario as coach.

Broder will be in evidence immediately after the Christmas vacation and will modify the style of play somewhat, introducing some features of the Canadian style of play to increase team efficiency.

A squad of forty men have been out for the past two weeks getting in trim for tryouts for the first and second teams. Soccer to develop the wind and cage-shooting have been the chief exercises. Of last year's team, Jones, Hutchinson, Needham and Little are eligible. Several freshmen are showing up well for the different positions.

HYDE PARK-DEDHAM IN ANNUAL GAME

Dedham and Hyde Park, those two ancient rivals, are in fine trim for their annual game, which will be played Saturday at the Stony Brook Reservation grounds, Hyde Park. The rivalry between these two towns grows stronger each year in a victory for either side is considered the biggest event of the whole football season.

STRONG FIVE FOR READING HIGH

In response to a call issued by Captain Garrod W. Tompos of the Reading High basketball team, seven players met yesterday afternoon at the high school gymnasium for practice and limbering from the work of the new season. Captain Tompos has the services of the majority of the players of the year's championship team, who have to go some to hold their old positions. This year's coach will be Joseph H. Carroll, sub-master of the school, and the manager will be Norman A. Lamb. The schedule for the season, so far as completed, is as follows: [illegible] Reading, Dec. 5; Open at Reading, Jan. 9; Open at Reading, Jan. 16; Open at Reading, Jan. 23; Wakefield High at Reading, Jan. 30; Open at Reading, Feb. 6; Open at Reading, Feb. 13; Open at Reading, Feb. 20; Open at Reading, Feb. 27; Open at Reading, March 6; Open at Reading, March 13; Open at Reading.

JAP FINISHES THIRD.

NEW YORK Nov. 22.—Yamada, the Japanese billiard expert, won third money in the world's professional championship 14-2 balk line tournament by defeating Hemingway in the playoff in their last night. The score was 500 to 200. Third place carried a money prize of $1,000, fourth $500.

B. A. A. Hockey Squad Holds First Practice

[illegible] for the B. A. A. hockey team put in their first practice of the season at the Boston Arena, Huntington Ave. [illegible] all the members of last year's seven, were [illegible] and there is an unusually strong [illegible] Ralph Wetmore, Lieut. [illegible] B. A. A. official, will look over [illegible] of the locker team for [illegible] next two weeks and it is [illegible] the last period Harvard wells and watches. At this time the opposition, usually having a less score than Harvard, resorts to desperate plays. Then the Crimson has its opportunity to boost the score.

FAVOR CRIMSON IN BIG RACE

[illegible] Several surprises may be sprung in the annual intercollegiate cross-country run which will be held at Cornell tomorrow afternoon.

This year a sensation was caused by the Harvard team when it defeated Cornell in a dual meet, and by reason of that victory the Crimson squad is picked to win the race—only by a complete reversal of form can the Cornell team hope to win.

Figuring on the individual performances of the past races, there is no stopping of the Crimson squad from winning their first victory. Harvard has the material and the men are in the finest possible condition. They have had the experience of running in the numerous meets for two seasons, they can stand any kind of punishment and still be there when the bell is tolled.

The present outlook of the race seems to be a duel race between Cornell and Harvard, although the Dartmouth squad has been [illegible] upon as a dark horse.

Taber should finish second to Jones, although he has only a weak team to second his efforts.

Jones still remains the favorite for first honors, and it is difficult to imagine any other athlete dashing across the line ahead of the Cornell captain.

radford Club Plans for Amateur Bouts

The Bradford Boat Club of Cambridge is to put on its first amateur boxing tournament of the season at Cypress Hall, Prospect street, Cambridge, Friday evening, December 6. There will be contests in four classes (to 115, 145, 158 and heavyweight class. Entries should be sent to J. E. Brassil, No. 59 Prospect street, Cambridge. Only the members of registered amateur clubs will be accepted. Entries close December 4.

Sir Thomas Lipton's Challenge Accepted

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Sir Thomas Lipton's proposal for an international yacht race here in 1915 was accepted today. At a luncheon of the San Francisco Commercial Club given in honor of Sir Thomas the following letter was read to him:

"On behalf of a syndicate yet to be named, permit me to accept your challenge for a race in 25-metre class to be sailed here in 1915.

"We will meet you with a boat designed under the universal rule built and sailed by San Franciscans, and may the best boat win.

(Signed) "THOMAS L. MILLER."

MANCHESTER NEEDS BASEBALL GROUNDS

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 22.—It is up to the projectors of a New England league baseball team to procure new grounds before they erect a grand stand and bleachers.

This has been made certain by the deliberations yesterday of the governing board of the Amoskeag Textile Club and the officers of the Manufacturers' Baseball League as the result of the overtures made to them by Frank J. Dupont, who would place a league team in this city, provided satisfactory arrangements can be made in a grounds lease.

PARDELLO IS VICTOR IN WRESTLING MATCH

Leo Pardello of New York defeated Carl Hessman the Austrian, in two straight falls in the catch-as-catch-can wrestling match at the Grand Opera House last night. The first fall coming after sixteen minutes and thirty seconds of grappling and the second in twelve minutes and 56 seconds.

DANAHY IS CAPTAIN.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 22.—Jim Danahy of Everett, Mass., was today elected captain of the Bates football team for next season.

CRIMSON WARRIORS PRACTICE ON YALE FOOTBALL FIELD

Harvard Has Secret Practice at Night

By A. A. Berle.

NEW LONDON, Nov. 22.—Although a hall had been hired in New London where secret signal practice could be held, the Harvard squad thought it better to rest today and take light indoor practice by electric light this evening. The men planner to work behind locked doors tonight.

It was settled today that no back-field substitutions were to be made tomorrow except in case of injuries. The first string substitutes for this type of positions has been lined up: Fullback, Bradlee; left halfback, Granstem; right halfback, Little.

FORTY HARVARD MEN IN NEW LONDON.

A second statement of the squad arrived this afternoon on the 4 o'clock express. The total number of men to be in New London this evening totals forty. This includes the Crimson coaches, Dunn, Donovan the trainer and the field coaches.

Last night a large number of substitutes went to London on the 8 o'clock train. New London is a good place to eat, sleep and wake up in the morning. The candles burned and the early morning pictures were a costly sight, and up to 10 o'clock there is nothing left to theatre and turn in early.

The weather at New London today was the same as the game. "Now, if it only would rain," said a Harvard player, "that is, if it was going to rain, as it has been for the last two days. The weather could not be better." Contrary to expectations, Chadbourne is in fairly good form. It is not thought that he will get into the game, however, as he has been down with a bad knee. Dillon has been used on the right wing position where he has been down with a bad knee. Though it is long odds, rain here tonight would not surprise anybody, as it has been cold, which tends to make it more windier.

Following its program, the team took the Bay State limited train to New Haven, arriving there at five after four o'clock. The team was then taken out to the Yale Field house, where it dressed for play.

The main object of the expedition was to get Harry and Dillon into the scrimmage on the Yale gridiron. Sam Felton, the Auburn topped left end, got off a number of passes and then declared emphatically that the cross currents were far too puzzling then at the Stadium because of the fact that all the ends were closed and the tackle more or less so while he stated that he could throw better, for the wind and cool control his punts better.

Charley Brickley appeared in getting off his usual drop kicks, finding the ground quite as easy to work on as the ill reputation of the grounds at the Polo Grounds. He found his old-time accuracy but he did not try long drops.

Substitute to Get Chance.

Barring injuries, it is up to Percy Haughton if Harvard is to win. Many of the men are showing that the game is getting them enough to make them ill and it is doubtful if the game goes well to the end. Should he will be given a chance in the second session.

Both Brickley and Dillon were held out of scrimmage because of the wise thing to do while there was the slightest suspicion the push and rough and tumble of which there is sure to be plenty in the line.

Harvard sentiment is also a New London where offers of 10 to 7 and even 10 to 6 are being freely made, with the odds in sight. In New Haven, however, for some strange reason the odds have changed from 10 to 6 to 10 to 8 and a number of even bets have been made. The distribution is so sudden that it is exciting considerable comment here.

In making their calls, both the rival coaches are expected to hold a conference tonight in New London, and to have breakfast tomorrow at the Mitchell Manor Whitman who is with the four engaged a private dining room and a suite of connected bedrooms for the first eleven this will holding practically the whole fifth floor.

Paul Hollister May Play.

Paul Hollister, the substitute right end and drop kicker, is expected to have a chance in the game tomorrow. There are too many substitutes, of course, to admit of all getting into the game, but Driscoll, Hollister and perhaps Bradlee are the three likely candidates.

WHICH IS BRICKLEY---WHICH JEFFRIES?

Charley Brickley of Everett—the king of field goal booters—looks like Jim Jeffries. Or, at twenty-two he resembles the Jeffries of twenty-two, in physical make-up and mould of face and head. You'll notice the striking resemblance the instant you see Brickley on the field. One of these pictures is that of Jeffries—the other of Brickley. Which is which!

"She's engaged to some one else?"

"Yes, sir; she's going to marry the Earl of Cortland," Rankin answered, with what seemed to the other a shade of an entirely foreign dignity.

"The Earl of Cortland?" he ejaculated. "Who's he? Where does he live? Up in the Van Cortlandt Park House?"

His triple inquiry was ignored by Rankin.

"Will you see her, sir?" Then, without waiting for his master's consent, he raised his hand, waving it as he stepped into the road, and giving a low whistle.

There was instant response. A little figure stepped from the darkness of the path, several hundred feet away, and trudged toward him. It seemed to Broadway that he was dreaming.

"Girl!" he commented. "You've got her trained like a good doggie."

Mrs. Gerard Arrives

"Yes, sir," said the butler.

No other words were spoken during the short interval that Mrs. Gerard's advance upon them continued. When she finally reached them Broadway saw that she was smiling.

"Has Rankin told you?" she asked, without a trace of resentment.

"Yes, Mrs. Gerard, he has told me."

The triple pillow sighed, and in that sigh mingled all her old regrets and newer satisfactions. Then she explained.

"I'd never thought if New York should imagine that I'd been jilted, or the subject of a practical joke. My excuse for throwing you over was my engagement to the Earl of Cortland. After a few hours' talk with Rankin I became convinced that our marriage would never have been a happy one. Since my decision to marry the Earl, she laid one hand upon Jack's arm, and for the first time that youth failed to shudder at the contact, "I've played fair with you, Jackson, and now, I shall want you to do the same by me."

A quick involuntary step backward carried Broadway away from Mrs. Gerard while equally without reflection he clapped both hands over his pockets. Thrift had at last been born in the spendthrift. In the old days he would have turned his pockets inside out. Nevertheless, he was not ungenerous.

"I'll do anything you ask within reason, Mrs. Gerard," he said quite in the tone he had used in his interview with the vice-president of the gum trust.

Mrs. Gerard did not seem to have noticed his caution, which had been purely instinctive, and not at all due to meanness.

"Very good," she said. "All that I ask is that you'll keep my secret."

"What secret?"

For answer she pointed to Rankin. Then she added words to her gesture:

"May I present the Countess of Cortland?"

"What?"

"It's true," she went on, "we've had a thorough understanding, and Rankin has agreed to become an earl. Don't be surprised. It's not at all unusual. It's being done—it's being done in New York. I know three dukes who were butlers, and a French count who was a chauffeur less than two years ago. Have I your solemn promise that you will not divulge the secret?"

"I give you my word of honor," said Jones.

"You remember, Rankin," he said, "that when I gave you that furniture I asked you if you had a flat and wife, and you said you had?"

"Perfectly, sir."

"Well, if you have a wife, how can you marry?"

"I haven't any wife, sir. When I said I had I had hopes, sir. In saying that I had a wife was just a little bit of a deviating from the normal, sir."

Rankin's manner was convincing, and Jackson believed him.

The trio exchanged good-byes.

"I hope that you will be very, very happy," Jones told Mrs. Gerard.

"Thank you. We don't expect to be," she returned cheerfully—then to Rankin—"Blake hands with Mr. Jones, Berlin."

The two men exchanged grips.

Broadway, in his delight at the turn of events, almost kissed into the ear of his former butler in a mixture of tragedy and comedy!

"You mean to tell me that you'd do such a low, contemptible, disgraceful thing as to marry a woman for her money?"

"Yes, sir, and thank you for the opportunity," answered the butler in his rising English inflection.

"Come, Berlin," said Mrs. Gerard, and Broadway was at last alone with a great happiness.

PART VIII.

Bob's Turn Now

FOR fully five minutes—which was an infinitude for him—Jackson stood barehanded in the road where the "Earl" and his bride-to-be had left him. Slowly through his whole being a glow diffused itself. Beginning in the innermost recesses of his consciousness, it grew and expanded in all directions, so that first the heart beat faster, and then, as he realized that this strange feeling was real happiness, the quickened pulsations sent the blood stirring through all the veins and arteries of his body. In the end his cheeks glowed as his joy emerged to the surface of his knowledge.

In an instant more Broadway was running full speed for his own home. He did not slacken his pace until he saw in the grounds before the house Bob Wallace, in by no means pleasant intercourse with a man whose definite resemblance to his own friend proclaimed the stranger the father of the young advertising man.

Before Jackson came upon the scene Bob had been summoned from the manor house to talk with a man who had refused to step inside. Bob, suspecting the truth, had gone to his father with:

"Hello, guv'nor! Well, you have handed me a surprise."

"You've handed me a surprise also," had been the instant reply.

"Why, what's the matter?" Bob had countered.

"That's what I've come here for—to find out what the devil is the matter with you."

At that precise moment Jackson entered the "yard" and went straight to the elder Wallace, taking and wringing his unresponsive hand.

"Have your father go right inside, Bob," Jackson said, cheerfully ignoring whatever of the unpleasant there was apparent. Then, shaking hands still with Bob's father, he added:

"By gracious, I'm awfully glad to meet you, Mr. Wallace! I knew you at once from the strong resemblance. And then Bob has spoken of you so often and told me so much about you that I feel that I know you as well as he does. Did you know he was coming, Bob?"

"No," the son answered, almost sullenly.

"Oh, a little surprise!" continued the voluble and radiant Jackson. "Well, why didn't you dig me off? I'd have held dinner for you. Come along inside and meet the folks. We're having a bully time, aren't we, Bob?"

"Yes, like," answered Bob, heartily. "This is Jackson Jones, guv'nor. You've heard me talk of him."

"I believe I have," said the elder Wallace.

His tone was courteous in the extreme, but there was a lack of that quality reserved for near and near friends.

"Isn't it strange that we never met before," went on Jackson, his own inner happiness acting as anything save a check upon his tongue, "Bob and I being such good friends? But we're going to get acquainted now, all right, aren't we? Come into the house and be comfortable."

"Thank you, but I'd like to speak to my son alone if you have no objections," said the father evenly.

"Why, of course," answered Broadway, his manner still that of his happiest moment, "and I'll expect you in as soon as you're through with your little talk. Don't let him get away, Bob. I'll prepare a nice little lunch for him."

"You needn't trouble, sir," came from the elder Wallace, who seemed determined to break no bread at Jones Manor.

"Oh, it's no bother at all, and I'm only too glad to get a chance to entertain. This is my first day in a regular home, and I'm having the time of my life. Don't you let him get away, Bob."

Finally father and son stood facing one another, and then the elder threw repression to the winds and spoke in all the bitterness that his courteous instinct had veiled before Jackson. He demanded:

"Now, sir, perhaps you'd like to explain the meaning of all this damned nonsense."

"What nonsense?" Wallace, the younger, asked in a wondering tone, though there was a grim about his lips.

"What are you doing here?"

"Didn't I phone you yesterday that I was here on business?"

"Business! Humph! Fine business! Do you realize the sort of contract you've sent in from this concern? Who ever gave the authority to sign such an agreement for the Empire Company?"

"You told me over the phone that I could use my own judgment in the matter."

"Well, I didn't suppose I was talking to a crazy man. Do you know you've guaranteed to cover every Eastern and Middle West State at a price that wouldn't pay for Pennsylvania alone?" Wallace's voice rose in a sort of scream which he lowered as Bob glanced apprehensively toward the house. "What the devil do you mean by making a statement to the Consolidated Gum people that the Empire was behind the Jones Company?"

Bob smiled sickishly.

"Well, I was bluffing them, that's all," he said feebly.

"And for what purpose, sir?" thundered on his father. "Do you have bluffed us out of a million dollars' worth of future contracts that were waiting and have signed an agreement that if it were made public would make us the laughing stock of the advertising world."

Bob put on his air of a good loser as he said:

"Well, it's too late to kick now, guv'nor, the deal's made; besides I have your telegram authorizing me to sign the contract."

"Why didn't you answer my telegram today?"

"Because I knew you'd come here if I didn't, and that's what I wanted you to do. I want to talk to you."

"Go on. I'm listening."

"Well, it's a long story."

"I dare say," said the father sarcastically.

Bob tried to throw his arm about his father's shoulders, but was repulsed.

"Come and take a little walk with me," he said. "I want to get you in good humor to hear it all. Wait a minute."

He called Jackson from the house and told him that he and his father were going for a stroll. Jackson was indifferent that the pair return shortly, as he was getting up a "nice little lunch" for them. And then as father and son started off, still a little distant toward one another, Jackson called out:

"Show him the plant, Bob."

"I'm going to," said Bob, adding to his father as he pointed with his fingers: "You see this is the residential part of the farm and over there is the business part."

As they passed through the gate into the road, Jones could not resist taking a fling at Bob and Clara's fondness for ice cream sodas at the village drug store.

"Now him the drug store, too, Bob," was his words.

PART IX

A Grandfather's Indiscretion

In the little company again gathered in the "parlor of Jones Manor" after Bob and his father had taken their exit it was soon apparent that the high spirits which Josie had at intervals manifested had transferred themselves to Bealway. From one to another of the five Spotswoods his attention and his hair darted.

"Good news? Good news, my boy?" the Judge asked referring to the business caller whom Jackson had said he was going to see outside.

"The best news in the world," answered Jackson with a burst of joyous laughter.

"And good for the plant, too?" the Judge queried.

"My sore throat is gone since I used these convenient tablets"

INDOORS—outdoors: city—country; every day—every night; everywhere—anywhere; you cannot avoid breathing germs.

The throat is the first point of danger in which disease germs settle—once they gain foothold, there is every likelihood the infection set up will lead to sore throat—to say nothing of Tonsilitis, Laryngitis, La Grippe—even Diphtheria.

Wulfing's
Formamint
THE GERM-KILLING THROAT TABLET

is the newest scientific principle advanced for the treatment and prevention of germ infection. Formamint incorporates a powerful germicidal agent in a harmless, pleasant-to-taste tablet. By dissolving in the saliva, the active germicide property of Formamint is carried into the throat, reaching every fold and pocket in the germ-teeming membrane—doing its work easily and searchingly—killing germ-life.

This a gaggle cannot do—it comes into only momentary contact with the infected membrane—cannot be taken often enough to be effective. Formamint can be taken any hour, any place—and is positive in its germ-killing quality.

8,000 physicians have certified to the efficiency of Formamint. Convenience itself—you can tuck the bottle away in vest pocket or handbag.

Germs from the hair

Germs from the ear

Enrico Caruso, the world's greatest tenor, writes: "I have found Formamint Tablets very pleasant to the taste and beneficial to the throat."

From The Lancet.

The sole object of a medicinal lozenge is to keep part of the mouth or throat one degree in heat rather for a time. A drug should not be the salient feature, or only the medicinal feature in it—FORMAMINT—which meets this requirement."

Strength in every ounce of H-O Oatmeal

What is strength? Simply a combination of energy and brawn in the right proportions.

In the course of your day's work, you are using up energy 5½ times as fast as you are using up brawn or tissue.

Eat H-O Oatmeal regularly for breakfast, and have the satisfaction of knowing that it is furnishing you with tissue and energy in almost exactly the proportions your body requires.

There is no other single food which so closely approaches this perfect balance.

And the best of it all is, when you eat H-O your system assimilates almost every bit of nourishment there is in it, which is not true of many of the other foods you eat.

Start with H-O as quickly as you can get a package.

Costs less than half-cent a dish.

Stock Prices; Financial News

New York Stocks Open Lower; Boston Prices Steady; Markets Dull.

STATE STREET, Nov. 22.—Trading was very dull on the local market throughout the first hour, and prices slightly irregular. Mayflower and United States Smelter declined ½ and American Zinc added ½, while the other stocks were practically unchanged from Thursday's closing prices.

New York Opening.

Prices were irregular and there was a heavy tone to the New York stock market at the opening today, owing to the resumption of fighting in the Balkans and the depression on the foreign exchanges.

The biggest loss was sustained by Canadian Pacific, which opened at 267 or ⅞ under last night's final. Among the other initial declines were: Amalgamated Copper ½; American Smelting ⅝; Anaconda Copper ½; Atchison ⅝; Chesapeake & Ohio ⅜; St. Paul ⅛; Chicago & Northwestern ½; Erie ⅛; Great Northern preferred ⅝; Lehigh Valley ⅝; Louisville & Nashville ¼; Northern Pacific ½; Reading ⅛; Southern Railway ⅝; Southern Pacific ⅝; U. S. Rubber ⅛; U. S. Steel common ⅝, and Western Union ⅛.

There were a few gains, among them being American Can ⅛; California Petroleum ⅛, and Chino Copper ⅜.

After opening unchanged, Brooklyn Rapid Transit declined ⅛ to 93¾.

After the first half hour trading became very quiet and comment was made on the manner in which the demand, which was so urgent yesterday afternoon, had wholly disappeared over night. Traders generally regarded yesterday's higher prices as being due entirely to short covering.

Harriman Lines.

Interests identified with the management of the Harriman lines say that they expect the October statements of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, to be issued in about a week, to show very satisfactory increases over October of last year. Business has been gaining in volume and while no figures are given it is stated that the gain in gross for the month will be fully as satisfactory as in September, in that month Union Pacific's gross increased $650,000 and Southern Pacific's business was $1,106,000 larger than September, 1911.

Calumet & Arizona.

The Calumet & Arizona company has sixty men at work drilling the New Cornells property, 125 miles west of Tucson. This is a steam-shovel proposition, and a substantial tonnage of ore has already been encountered. The ore averages about 2 per cent. copper and is in the form of carbonates and sulphides in the form of chalcopyrite. This ore is rather difficult to treat, but the company will undoubtedly find a system which will satisfactorily recover the copper contents.

About fifty-five men are working at the Courtland properties and two carloads of ore are being shipped daily to Douglas. There is not much prospect of this developing into a big mine, and if the Calumet & Arizona Company can get its expenditures back it will do well. Between forty and fifty men are at work on the eighty-five claims recently optioned in the Superior district of Arizona, where it is planned to sink a three-compartment shaft and run a tunnel.

These outside developments, particularly in the New Cornells property, are very promising. If the Calumet & Arizona Company could develop a big steam shovel proposition, it would add very materially to intrinsic values and earning power.

New York Cotton Market.

Firm strides and a covering movement imparted strength to the cotton market at the opening today and first prices were up 6 points higher. Covering by room traders was a feature, but some of the early aggressive bull support was thought to be for the purpose of furnishing a better selling basis. After the call the volume of business fell off. Futures and spot in Liverpool were steady.

Foreign Financial News.

London copper warrants were steady at the opening, with spot unchanged at £77½ and futures 1s. 3d. higher at £78¾.

Profit taking because of the approach of the week-end settlement caused a slight recession in the London market today, but the undertone held steady. American railway shares declined fractionally, while Canadian Pacific lost over a point.

Foreigners were busy because of the turn in the Balkan affairs. Mines and rubbers were easier. De Beers lost 5-16 to 21 1-16, and Rio Tintos declined ¼ to £78¾.

U. S. A. NATION OF INVESTORS

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Americans are gradually becoming a nation of investors. There are upwards of three million holders of securities—bonds and stocks—in our great railroad and industrial corporations.

Official figures have been supplied the AMERICAN by nearly two hundred corporations, but some have arrived too late for analysis.

The return of 151 companies, having an aggregate of $9,162,938,097 stock outstanding, discloses 968,199 stockholders. This is less than half the total stock issued by our railroad and industrial corporations, so that, based on the official data, it may be estimated that there are not fewer than 2,000,000 stockholders in these enterprises.

$40,000,000,000 in Securities.

In addition to fully $20,000,000,000 stock, these corporations have floated rather more than $20,000,000,000 bonds. It is a safe assumption that the colossal sum is distributed among from one to two million individuals.

This fact should not be lost sight of by reckless corporation haters.

Fifty-four railroads this year report 389,070 stockholders, and 107 industrial companies have 519,123 on their lists.

It is a remarkable fact that the average number of shares held is only the slightest fraction over 100—less than 101.

Here is a synopsis of the returns for the last seven years:

A NEW IDEA IN TAILORING

CUSTOM-MADE SLIP-ON SUITS AND OVERCOATS

This Is an Original Departure in Custom Tailoring. Nothing Like It Ever Attempted Before

Beginning tomorrow, Saturday, we inaugurate an entirely original and progressive policy concerning the disposal of ends that constantly accumulate on our counters.

Heretofore, to effect quick clearance of these odd lengths, it has been our practice to take orders on them for made-to-measure garments at practically cost of production.

While this method effectually kept our stock free from driftwood merchandise which otherwise would get musked or soiled by being thrown here and there during the stress of heavy selling, nevertheless it had its drawbacks. Owing to salesmen's misjudgment as to the varying necessary in individual cases, frequent disappointments occurred through our inability to fill orders on styles selected. Our new method entirely overcomes this. In future, so soon as an end develops, it will be made up into suit or overcoat, in size and style to which it is best adapted.

You can now come in here, slip on a suit or overcoat, and if it appeals to you, walk out of our store with clothes on your back that are made exactly the same as though we had taken your measure. Only you get it at cost price.

Our profit is your Good Will, which must help to build up our business.

Remember that as this stock automatically adjusts itself to conditions as they arise, sizes, styles and quantities necessarily will change from day to day.

Tomorrow there will be about seventy-five suits and overcoats in the lot, comprising nearly all sizes except extreme stouts. Come early.

Ever Ask a Quart Bottle to Hold a Quart-and-a-Pint of Milk?

Impossible? Of Course! But Isn't It the Impossible That We Are All Asking of Winter Street? The Merchants of That Little Giant Thoroughfare Should Get Together and Insist Upon City Hall DOING SOMETHING.

Winter street is getting to look more and more like a popular department store on the second day before Christmas.

This short thoroughfare is called upon for more service than any other street in New England. Scores of thousands of people, from the West and Southwest, coming to town every day by trolley, are poured into Winter street from the subway stations at Park street. This, at the Tremont street end.

And at the Washington street end of this veritable Little Giant of thoroughfares there enter daily other scores of thousands, who have come to the shopping district from the North Station and the South Station.

If the little street were merely an avenue—a connecting link—from Washington street to Tremont street, its condition would be trying enough.

But Winter street is more than a thoroughfare. It is the locale of some of the best shops in New England, one or two of the best department stores.

Such conditions as prevail today must be almost intolerable to the merchants of this street. These conditions are growing worse. They must be the cause of dissatisfaction to women who come to Winter street because of Winter street, and not because the street is a "way through."

It appears to the AMERICAN that the time has arrived when the business men of Winter street should get together, in a way calculated to impress not only the public but City Hall.

These merchants might well choose a committee, with power to find the best way possible out of today's confusion.

The AMERICAN believes that Winter street will find School street—the Mayor, the Council, the Board of Street Commissioners and the Commissioner of Public Works—more than ready to do a great public service to all of Boston, and a considerable part of New England, by clearing the way through Winter street.

Perhaps you recall the old-fashioned theatre with a single exit. Getting out after the "show" was over, you remember, was no small task, and altogether trying and wearisome.

Men applied thought to the problem of emptying the theatre and making it safe.

A little thought will do a great work with the vexatious problem of Winter street.

How We Go to Sleep and Wake Up

Nature's Wisdom, and Proof of Our Original Primitive Condition.

Copyright, 1912, by American-Journal-Examiner

Every twenty-four hours you go to sleep and wake up. Have you ever devoted thought to the sleeping and waking process?

Sleep is a condition of recuperation, and a condition of danger. The forces of the body—that protect us and guide us through our waking hours—all suspend their activities. And each of our vital centres stores up fresh energy for the work of the coming day. We are unprotected and at the mercy of enemies.

Observe how nature cautiously does what she can to protect us in this sleeping operation. And ask yourself if in going to sleep you do not bring back dimly the forest or cave life of your ancestors?

Your guardian senses do not leave you all at once. Each, in turn, succumbs to sleep and gives up its watchfulness.

Of all things that protect us from danger, our eyes are most important. But sleep, normally, comes with darkness, when sight is useless, anyhow. Therefore, when we sleep we first of all close our eyes, cutting off sight, and confiding our welfare to the other senses. Next after sight, taste goes. As a man gets drowsy the nerves of taste follow the optic nerves into oblivion. Next the sense of smell goes to sleep. Smell is a protector, but a minor one, especially among us "higher primates."

When a man is "half asleep" his sight is gone, taste and smell are dormant. Next hearing succumbs, and, last of all, the sense of touch.

The sense of touch, warning us of the closest possible approach of danger, stays awake and on guard to the very last.

Finally the little nerves lying at the surface of the skin, the nerves that tell when anything touches us, abandon their work; the nervous fluid is withdrawn to the central batteries, and we are fast asleep.

When you awake the same process occurs—reversed.

The quickest way to awaken a man it to pinch him. The sense of touch acts most quickly. The next quickest way is to shout at him. Hearing wakes him up. The next is to awaken him by putting some strong odor near him; then comes the sense of taste as an awakener.

Perhaps you will ask the usual question:

"What of it?"

We can only answer that it is good occasionally to point out to callous humanity the marvellous wisdom, in the smallest details, of the Providence or laws that guard us.

Our senses are our guardians, guides, protectors. And when we sleep the most vigilant and important of them is last to go off duty and first to come on duty again.

By considering these little things you become interested in the big things of the universe; you learn to take interest in yourself—which is the beginning of philosophy—and you learn reverence for Divine wisdom, which is the end of philosophy.

To prove that small things are important, we shall quote to you a part of Socrates' talk on the wonderful human organism—Socrates' name is so solemn that you are compelled to treat it respectfully.

Xenophon, who relates the conversation, declares that he heard Socrates discoursing with Aristodemus, surnamed the Little—and very well surnamed, by the way, since he (Aristodemus) denied the existence of God.

Socrates, as proof of God's wisdom, points out various fine points about the human being, and continues:

"It is not that Providence, Aristodemus, in a most eminent manner conspicuous which, because the eye of man is so delicate in its construction, bath, therefore, prepared eyelids like doors, whereby to secure it, which extend of themselves when it is needful, and again close when sleep approaches? Are not these eyelids provided, as it were, with a fence on the edge of them, to keep off the wind and guard the eye? Even the eyebrow itself is not without its office, but, as a penthouse, is prepared to turn off the sweat, which falling from the forehead might enter and annoy that no less tender than astonishing part of us."

Socrates goes on to admire our ears, which "take in sounds of every sort, yet are not too much filled with them," and our teeth, the front ones for biting off, the rear ones for grinding, etc.

We have quoted enough from the wise old man to show that GREAT men observed LITTLE things, and that it is worth your while, Mr. Reader, to contemplate in detail the wisdom that guides you, sleeping or waking.

GRATEFUL TO THE AMERICAN

Editor Boston AMERICAN.

Dear Sir—Voicing the sentiment of all the Hellenic people, we desire to express our profound gratitude to you for your very accurate narratives in defence of the united Christians now battling for liberty and freedom from its unspeakable Turk.

It is not surprising, indeed, to see a leading newspaper in a free country, such as this, expressing the cause of less fortunate and, until now, helpless brethren, but our gratitude is nevertheless sincere.

May the AMERICAN long endure to espouse and aid the cause of the weak and helpless in every land. Most respectfully,

M. POUTOKO,

Women Skilled in Use of Typewriter Can Earn Money at Home

One Hundred Ways to Earn Money at Home

A Fifty-Page Booklet by Mabel Barclay Ury

Will be sent postpaid to any address upon receipt of ten cents in stamps to cover cost of mailing and handling. Address BOSTON AMERICAN PROMOTION DEPARTMENT, No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston.

By MABEL BARCLAY URY

WERE you a stenographer before your marriage? Are you a stenographer now, and has the doctor forbidden you to work all day in an office, or are you anxious to earn extra money at night? Can you beg, borrow or buy an old typewriter, and teach yourself to work the keyboard with some fair degree of speed and accuracy—especially accuracy?

If you belong to any of these classes, there is money for you in the work you can do at home. Students, writers, clergymen, men and women in small businesses—all are in constant need of typewriting for which they themselves have no time, but which is perhaps too small in volume to justify employing a secretary. Not one of them but will be willing to pay ten cents a legal page—the current rate—for work properly done.

If you can take dictation, so much the better for your pocketbook. And if you are acquainted with any foreign language well enough to translate it, you will have no difficulty in securing an occasional foreign letter at forty cents a hundred words.

Any special knowledge you have in this line you can make good use of. If you cannot afford to buy a typewriter, hire one—it costs usually only $3 a month—until you have made enough to pay for it. Try, if possible, to secure regular and steady customers, who will engage a definite time at an understood salary.

And now, without further parley, let us turn to the letters which suggested this thought to me.

Typewrites Speeches

I have felt very much interest in your department and think it the finest thing of its kind I have ever read. I think it especially valuable because of the wide range of subjects and also the inspiration which comes from the knowledge that these ideas have really been successfully used.

Now I would like to offer a suggestion, and it is one which I have not seen in these columns. It is home typewriting. Some time ago I took a course of shorthand and typewriting, and when it was completed I found the usual difficulty in securing the start which I wanted. As I was afraid I should lose much of my "speed" I decided to buy a second-hand typewriter and so keep up my practice. This I did, and then I thought I might secure some outside work. I notified a few people, and it was not long before I had quite a nice amount of work, and made a good stand amount of money, beside keeping my practice up. One man makes lots of speeches, and he lets me typewrite them for him. This may be of help to some one of the many who are placed as I was.

MAY A. BOOTH.

Works for Doctors

This is the way I contribute my earnings to the family. I looked in the AMERICAN for bargains in typewriters and found one at a very reasonable price. I started with my own doctor and asked him if he needed any letters written occasionally. He said he did and would like to have me do it, as he did not have work enough to hire a stenographer by the week. I take his dictation at his office and then write the letters at home. Through him I have secured work from several other doctors. As each one pays me fifty cents an hour I make between seven and eight dollars a week. In this way I am able to pay for my own musical education.

The Future—Each Individual Should Become a Futurist and Forget His Past, Whether It Be Good or Evil.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

LET me look always forward. Never back.
Was I not formed for progress? Otherwise
With onward pointing feet and searching eyes
Would God have set me squarely on the track
Up which we all must labor with life's pack?
Yonder the goal of all this travel lies.
What matters it if yesterday the skies
With light were golden or with clouds were black,
I would not lose tomorrow's glow of dawn
By peering backward after suns long set.
New hope is fairer than an old regret;
Let me pursue my journey and press on—
Nor tearful-eyed, stand ever in one spot
A briny statue like the wife of Lot.

THERE is a new movement on foot called the Futurist Society. Its followers are Futurists.

They resolve to let the dead past bury its dead; to give no thought to what has been, but to devote themselves, with all their energies, to the present time in order to create such a Future as never existed in any past.

Perhaps these people carry their idea a little too far; at least, to suit the individual of temperament and the lover of art. For it has been said (I do not know how truly) that they will have nothing to do with old art, literature or sculpture; believing too much time, thought, money and enthusiasm are spent upon the dead creators and not enough given to the aid and encouragement of new geniuses.

To give up all study of history would be to some of us the keenest deprivation, and it would rob travel of its most subtle pleasure. And to give up contemplation of old works of art would be almost crucifixion.

Yet the Futurist idea is a great one in the main; and it must above the world along and lift the race at the same time to a higher plane.

Each individual should become a Futurist in regard to his own life.

He should put his past behind him and forget his own achievements, whether good or evil.

If you have accomplished something of which you feel proud, obliterate it from your thoughts, and begin each day as if you had yet to start life, afresh.

If you have made mistakes, forget them, and on the clean white page of Today write your first sentence of the story of a wise, good, successful Future.

There are possibilities in you of which you have never dreamed. You can be, and do and have more than you have ever hoped or imagined.

No one of us (since Christ) has even guessed our immense possibilities to achieve.

It does not matter what your age or your physical condition. If you have your mental powers clear enough to read these words and comprehend them, and if you have the physical power to take deep breaths, then there lies an immense hope for you to build yourself a good, strong body and carve out a new future.

Begin every morning and say this little "Mantram," silently first, and afterward whisper it audibly:

"The God-given Almighty Power is moving within me to give health, success and happiness. I shall be shown the way to help bring about all those conditions. Love, Light and Kindness will upon me. I shall be shown the way."

You can say this many times before you rise from your bed, and you will be given new strength at each repetition.

You can close your eyes and repeat the words silently in crowded street cars, and you can whisper them softly as you walk the city thoroughfares.

So surely as you do this, faithfully and persistently, a change will come over your life, good will grow better and evil will give place to good.

Your health will improve and your fortunes will be bettered.

Always it must be said with a reverent spirit, and with no feeling of levity.

And be willing to wait for results.

And be persistent and use willpower to form the habit of concentration sufficiently strong to enable you to be regular in this mental and spiritual practice.

Perhaps you will say it takes time, and you cannot spare it. Yet think how much time you give daily to worry, despondency and regret.

Shut them all away from your mind.

Be a Futurist. And create for yourself a new body, a new mind and a new life.

IT HAS BEEN DONE BY OTHERS. IT CAN BE DONE BY YOU.
